
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Lemon has been recorded meowing!

Yesterday at 12:30 P.M. in the afternoon, Lemon, the king of the cats and also one of the most security paranoid cats in the world has been seen playing and meowing. This will be the news for days to come.

Image above - Lemon meowing.

“I don’t know how anybody could get a recording of Lemon like this,” says North, a multi - species behaviorist, “Lemon would tear the GPS off a lost boat carrying a supply of tuna that could last years, let alone letting himself be recorded!”

Harvey, Lemon’s brother and friend is also very puzzled. “I do not have any idea about why Lemon’s paranoia has suddenly disappeared, because I just payed him a visit, and I spent most of my time going through detectors for every single possible weapon material. The guards even confiscated my cupcake I was saving for after lunch!”

No cat knows for sure why Lemon has let himself be recorded, but in the meantime we have found more photos of Lemon on the internet, taken just seconds ago, like the one on the right. Now, there are 14,092 photos on the internet of Lemon, 14,092 more than there were before these photos were taken.

“Lemon could be doing this on a bribe,” North says thoughtfully, “he isn’t the richest cat that you meet on the street. Or, maybe Lemon did this on a dare. Lemon was into dares until someone filmed him doing one.”

Harvey has gotten concerned because Lemon just called him without going through the half hour security check to tell Harvey that he was going to appear in public for a speech. Harvey didn’t even move for 3 minutes after Lemon hung up. This was officially not like Lemon.

Harvey has decided to hire a team of detectives to work with North to try and find out Lemon’s motives. The detectives are Ice, Rice, and Rice jr. Ice is the leader and mastermind, because he can find and break a human camera, and Rice and Rice jr. are the security/fighters. With North as extra brains, these detectives have a good chance to find out more about Lemon’s surprising and concerning behavior.

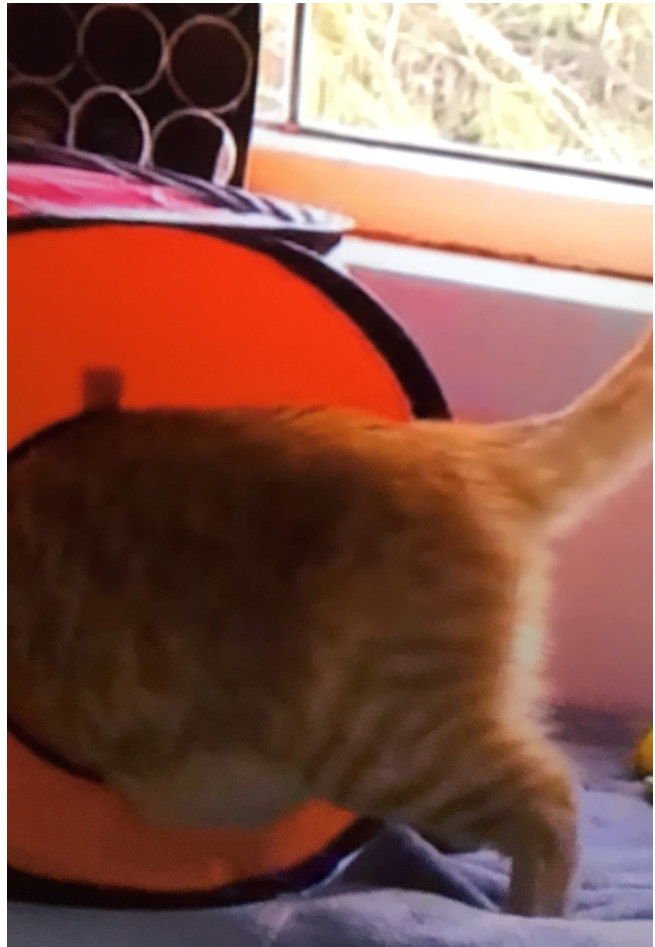

Image above - a rare photo of Lemon.

“I’ve talked to Lemon before - this is not the Lemon that I can remember!”

- NORTH, A MULTI SPECIES BEHAVIORIST empire.

After searching for a recording of Lemon, we have found that Lemon is meowing in a different language supposedly to a secret camera in the wall. Is he trying to communicate secretly with another cat, or is he practicing his speech? But what if Lemon isn’t Lemon at all, and there is an imposter on the royal throne? Well, the detectives are on the case. With their strong team leading this effort, an imposter would stand on chance on overthrowing the cat

Subscribe again for more on Lemon and his odd behavior!