
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Mavis and Naya have been pardoned by Lemon!

Yesterday, in the afternoon, Lemon came to Mavis and Naya's trial which was finishing up, and he pardoned them of all of their crimes. This was a massive surprise, because Lemon usually doesn't go within 50 feet of any possible criminals. Pardoning Mavis and Naya was a big deal. Mavis nearly lost her cabbages, and Naya was on the floor thanking Lemon. Getting pardoned for a possible life sentence is a very big deal, and even Naya can show gratitude for that.

Image above - Lemon sticking his head into the courtroom to pardon Mavis and Naya.

However, some of the people in the court were not happy with Lemon after that. They said that "these are criminals who have committed real crimes", and that "this is a misuse of your pardoning power!" Lemon took no notice as he walked Mavis and Naya out. This was out of their hands.

Mavis gave Harvey a call to tell him that they were back, and Harvey was relieved. Then he told her that the kittens expected a big surprise when they got back. Mavis and Naya only had 1 day to get it ready before their kittens arrived home after their sleep away camp. However, there was a split decision about what kind of surprise that Mavis and Naya would make. The split was between a 15 cat tricycle and a mini roller coaster with a casserole theme. Lemon solved this problem by announcing that he would pay for both. He even payed for a house extension for the roller coaster and a long garage for the tricycle. The construction would take a week, so in the meantime Mavis, Naya, and all of their kittens could sleep at Lemon's palace. What could be a bigger surprise than that!

North, a multi species behaviorist has been digging for information about why Lemon would want to pardon Mavis and Naya. All he found was the picture to the right. The conviction flyer could have many meanings, including the fact that Lemon knows how bad jail can be and that he doesn't want any other cats he loves going to jail. This is North's best guess at the moment, but he cannot be certain of anything until more clues are revealed.

All of Mavis and Naya's sisters are relieved, too. None of them would have been able to stand talking to Mavis and Naya through a speaker, separated by glass windows. That would have broken Naya, let alone Mavis, Stripy, Rudy, and especially Judy. When everyone heard that Mavis and Naya were pardoned, there was a big celebration and lots of cabbage casserole.

"I am so very relieved that Mavis and Naya got pardoned - I wouldn't have been able to tell any more lies to their kittens!"

- HARVEY, WHO CARES FOR ALL KITTENS AS HIS OWN.

Lemon: Convicted

Crimes:

Petty theft
Counterfeiting

Sentence:

3 months

Image above -
Conviction flyer for
Lemon 6 years ago.

After paying all of the construction bills, Lemon let Mavis and Naya spend the night with their sisters. They had been separated for 3 weeks, and there was a lot of catching up to do. New brands of tricycles had come out, Stripy overcame Judy with followers on catTube, and Rudy bought a motorcycle. Reposado had been adopted or returned, and Rudyjudy and Makenna had been moved. It would be nice to talk sister to sister just for a little bit, without fighting about things or just sitting around awkwardly.

Subscribe again for more cool stories!