
CATS ILLUSTRATED

North has gotten a promotion!

2 days ago, after thinking it over carefully, Mavis, North's supervisor, recommended him to the boss of the company North works at. The head of Behavior and Co. had an hour to think, and then decided to promote North from working behaviorist to supervising behaviorist. North was happy about the program, and his only concern was washed away when his boss told him that he still worked full time, he just also supervised. North loves working as a behaviorist, so he was concerned that he wouldn't get to do any hands on work at all. Also, his salary is now higher, which means he can get Harvey that couch he really wanted for his therapy sessions in his office. For his birthday however, North wants to make an addition to the house for Harvey's therapy sessions. Harvey's office barely fits his desk and an armchair. What the he 🛠️🛠️ was Harvey thinking when he wanted a couch that wouldn't even fit through the door of his office! North might have to make that addition sooner than expected...

Image above - Harvey and North hugging over North's new promotion.

All cats are happy about North's promotion, but North right now is thanking Mavis for recommending him. Mavis isn't a behaviorist, but she knows a couple of things that got her a part time job as a supervisor. She just gets to tell people if they're doing something wrong, or tell the boss about anything serious going on. Mavis also wrestles and fights for her career, but Mavis has deep down always wanted to be a police officer. When Mavis told North this, he decided to recommend her.

Later, in the afternoon, North ordered Harvey's couch and called some construction cats, including Mavis, and told them what he wanted to build. If Harvey came by, they were to go and look at the piping underneath the building. There was a "leak" and they were here to fix it. So, the construction workers got to work. They estimated at 2 day job time, and sure enough, the structure was built and insulated by the early morning of today. While Harvey took his nap, North and some movers picked up the newly arrived couch, and Harvey's belongings and put them in the new addition.

"It's so great to see Harvey down there in the addition, relaxing in that couch!"

- NORTH, WHO HAS A SECRET PEEPHOLE DOWN TO THE ADDITION

And then, North tried out the secret slide and stairs built from Harvey's office to the addition. Harvey would love it. And when Harvey woke up from his nap, he did. It was perfect, and the clients would still meet him in the office. Then, they would slide down the slide and land on the soft rug of the addition. The couch was a hit, and Harvey installed a soft drink machine for fun. He also had a secret cupboard of snacks. But things went too far when one of his clients used 1 dollar to buy 10 soft drinks and was jittery for the rest of the lesson. Harvey decided to keep it, but there was a 1 drink limit.

Subscribe again to see how Harvey likes his new office!

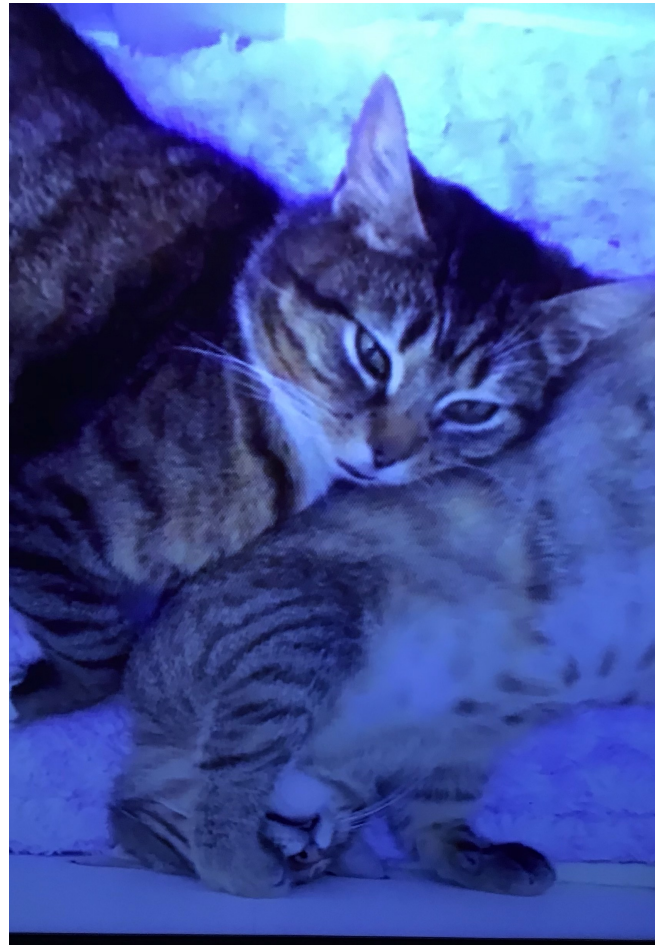

Image above - Harvey sleeping with North as a thank you of getting him the addition and the couch.