
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Teams of detectives are investigating Judy's murder!

Ever since Judy was murdered 1 and a half days ago, search teams have been scouring the area for Scratch, her supposed murderer. However, they have found nothing of Scratch or any sign of Judy's body except for a large blood stain on the concrete ground of the alley in which she was killed, which is now roped off as a police area. Judy's mate, Max, and her kittens are all very distressed, but Ice is working with Rice and Rice jr., his team of detectives. They are solving the crime privately, without telling any souls about their mission. Also, they have indefinitely postponed the funeral.

Image above - Rice jr., sneaking off to meet with Rice and Ice, his colleagues and fellow detectives.

The closest thing to a clue that they have found was a shred of fur on the ground in the alley. Ice pulled strings to keep it a secret and gave the shred of fur to a black market DNA scientist in exchange for money, a large amount of it. The scientist said that the shred of fur belonged to Scratch, a gangster and a regular customer around the black market. So, that was where Ice, Rice, and Rice jr. headed next. They were going to solve the case of Judy's murder. And they were going to make the culprit pay.

Harvey feels so bad that he is trying to sleep through the investigation of Judy's murder and her funeral. Harvey will wake up when things have died down about her death, when cats have moved on in life. Harvey wasn't quite ready to sleep yet, because first he had to pack on some body fat to keep him alive during his long sleep.

Mavis and the authorities are in teams scouring the area around the murder, and asking citizens if they knew anything about Scratch. The majority of the citizens say that they only knew that if you crossed paths with Scratch, only bad would come for you in the years ahead.

Scratch was bad news. But now Mavis is wondering, why did he chose Judy as a target? Rudy would be just as good, and Juliet isn't much different either. Mavis is starting to think that Judy has some deals in the black market, not all of them benefiting her, of course. What if Judy had a deal with Scratch, but she couldn't hold up her end? Well, Mavis didn't want to think about that. Some of the citizens claimed to have distant family members cooked alive by Scratch and then chopped up into little pieces.

Just this morning, Harvey snuggled down for his long sleep. However, as soon as he fell asleep, he didn't feel like himself. Judy was silhouetted against a windowsill in the dream, and Scratch was behind her. Harvey called out a warning, but Judy and Scratch walked away. Suddenly, Harvey woke up from what could only be described as another prophetic dream.

Subscribe again for more about what will come of the investigation!

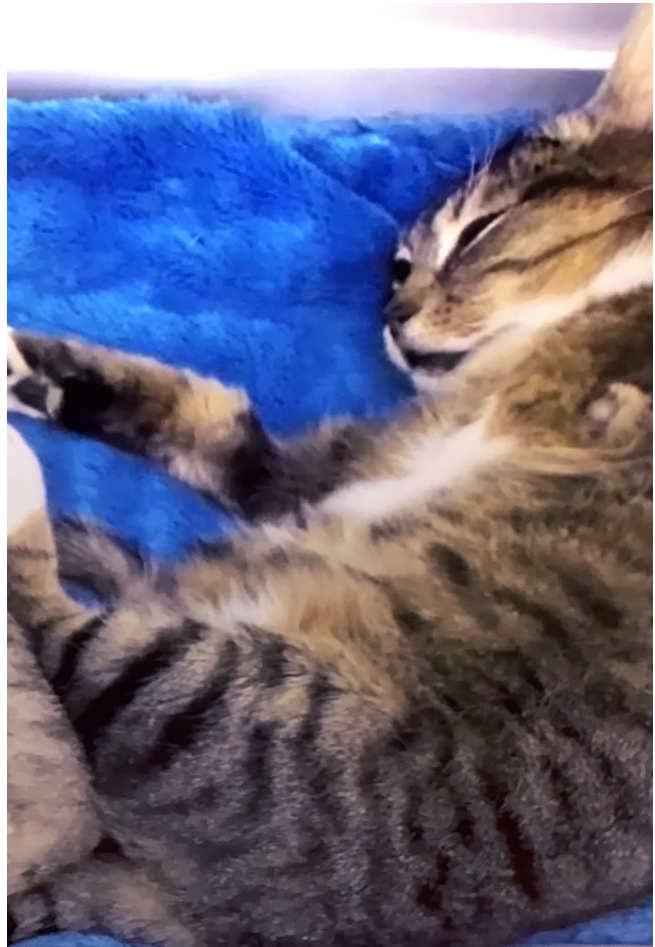

Image above - Harvey, who's trying to sleep through the whole investigation and the funeral in one run.

“That dream... - I think it meant that... Judy could still be alive!

- HARVEY, WHO DIDN'T MAKE UP THE PROPHETIC DREAM PART THIS TIME