Harvey has confessed to his family that he is The Muscle!

Ever since Harvey confessed, his family have been buzzing about this new truth. All of Mavis, Naya, and Stripy's kittens lined up for autographs right away, but Stripy had to get them all to go along with a cover story so the cats in their classes wouldn't know that "The Muscle" was Harvey. However, Harvey is not feeling too good. He really just wants to live his years out, wrestling from time to time, but just being a regular citizen. If people discover his secret identity, it would literally ruin the life that he would like to live. So, that's why Harvey is so worried. Also, cats are wondering what Mavis will do, now that she has actually been beaten by Harvey. She hasn't been seen since losing the wrestling match with Harvey, but she is probably off sulking somewhere. She's not happy about losing, all cats can agree on that.

North has been hyper ever since he learned that Harvey was the best professional cat wrestler in the history of cat wrestling. North now wants to know where Harvey's trophies are. Harvey made a deal with North about this. North would get to look at and maybe touch his trophies, and then North would leave Harvey alone. North agreed to this, and was not disappointed with the trophies. They were gleaming, shiny trophies, all 16 of them, 2 more than Mavis. Mavis may be the best at chubby wrestling, but the main event is the overall wrestling. The Muscle and The Mavis, Mavis's wrestling name, have never placed lower than third place. 10 of Harvey's trophies were gold, 6 of them were silver, and 2 of them were bronze. If you melted down the gold, silver, and the bronze separately, you could have as much as 50,000 dollars, which is a lot. However, Harvey doesn't want to melt his trophies. He's going to show them to Mavis, who has 7 gold trophies, 4 silver trophies, and 3 bronze trophies. Her trophies might be worth more like 35 to 40,000 dollars. However, Mavis doesn't want to melt hers, either. North agrees. He'd rather melt the marble platform the trophies are on.

- NORTH, WHO HAS TO EVACUATE

Mavis finally arrived back at her house. She was smiling. Harvey knew something was up right after he was called by one of Mavis's kittens about what was happening over at their house. Mavis just smiled when her kittens asked what was going on. Her kittens really knew something was up when they heard and felt an earthquake. No. Mavis couldn't have started an earthquake. However, near Harvey's house the earthquake was worse. North watched out the window as the ground shook, and eventually, he spotted the stampede of fans. Mavis had betrayed Harvey.
