
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Mavis has been getting weird phone calls!

On Monday morning, Monday evening, and today at 5:30 A.M, Mavis has gotten some very strange phone calls. The caller calls, says a bad word, and hangs up. These calls are very annoying, because Mavis needs to focus. Also, it's not pleasant being woken up at 5:30 A.M. when Mavis likes to sleep until 8:00 (I know, you do too). Mavis wants to put a stop to this nonsense, so if she gets another call, she will try to track the signal to its source. This is a good plan, and Mavis had the help of detectives Ice, Rice, and Rice jr. to formulate it. However, these calls have stressed Mavis out and Ice had to call Harvey for an emergency therapy session to make sure Mavis didn't explode. He also brought some of his pound cake, which is still leftover from when he made it. After the session Mavis seemed to feel better, but from the look on her face the feelings just seemed to be buried deeper temporarily.

Image above - Mavis, trying to work out the stress over the mystery phone calls by spending time with her kittens.

North, a multi species behaviorist can understand Mavis’s behavior. However, he knows that she is usually stronger about this kind of stuff. However, Mavis might be thinking that these mystery calls might put her kittens in danger. Any mama cat would feel scared at that. So, this could be the reason Mavis is feeling so stressed and agitated.

“Through experience, I’ve learned that the only thing that makes Mavis nervous is potential danger to her kittens,” says Rudy, who shouldn’t be in this issue because of a possible reaction from Judy, but still found a way in. At that exact moment, Judy walked in the studio, saw Rudy, and put in her own opinion.

“No, there are 2 ways to make Mavis nervous and agitated,” says Judy, who also shouldn’t be in this issue, “1, potential danger to her kittens, and 2, the confiscation of all of her cabbages just after the whole grocery store sold out. That’s usually enough to put Mavis into a frenzy.” Judy smirks at Rudy, who points to her chubby and makes the “bigger” sign. Judy’s face contorts. “Rudy you little piece of st! Come here and fight me!” Rudy swaggers over, and is about to launch herself at Judy when security agents drag them both out the door.

Image above - Rudy, weighing the good tastes and bad tastes of her signature burger dish.

“Is my burger that bad? There’s only 1 extra hour of cooking and 1 teaspoon of dirt!”

Mavis is already starting to feel calmer. She expects a call in the evening, and she is ready for it. The mystery caller who is causing her stress and agitation is going down! However, Mavis is wondering if Rudy could cook her a burger to get answers out of the caller (she’d force them to eat it).

- RUDY, WHO FEELS SLIGHTLY HURT AND A LITTLE PROUD TO BE ABLE TO CREATE A TORTURE WEAPON

Subscribe again to hear more about this mystery caller and all of the cats and stories you love and follow!