
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Mavis has returned! Or has she?

Last evening, Harvey sighted Mavis over his security camera while chasing his tail. When he saw her, he dismissed her figure as a delivery cat. However, when the figure stepped into the light, Mavis was the cat revealed. Harvey immediately stopped chasing his tail when he saw that she was the cat outside, and ran up the stairs from his therapy room and to the front door. Harvey opened it, but Mavis was not the cat there. There was a mass of shadow, with the face of a black cat at the top. However, there seemed to be a tail at the end of the shadow. It was a long, gray tail, and Harvey realized to his dismay that it was Mavis's tail. He looked up in horror at the blob of shadow and the face. "What have you done?" He asked, indicating Mavis's tail at the end of the shadow mass. The mystery cat laughed. "Of course you know, I can't overthrow your idiot son without a proper body. I have already collected 2 other cats, and with Mavis's body, I will finally be able to make the transformation between spirit and physical. Also, I needed the brains of the three cats and what they knew. Mavis is turning out to be quite useful. However, I have been feeling an indescribable craving of cabbages." Harvey smiled to himself. Mavis could be taken over by another cat, but her traits showed straight through.

Image above - Harvey, the first cat to sight Mavis over his security camera.

While the mystery cat rambled on about Coffee's bad traits and cowardice, Harvey pretended to trip, and fell over. He used the opportunity to grab his cat phone, and alert a random cat. He just needed someone to know that he was in danger. He picked Lunch randomly, and pressed the button. Her catPhone would let out a loud beeping until she picked it up. However, Harvey had other intentions with this mystery cat.

"I'm going to get Mavis from you, no matter what," Harvey told the mystery cat defiantly. The mystery cat scoffed. "What, you? You're just an old, fat cat." Harvey leaped without any warning. It was one of his reactions, and his were very fast. However, this was one of the worst insults that you could say to Harvey. It just fueled his wrestling, though..

"I think North might have even seen his father disappear, but I can't be sure."

- JULIET, AN EYEWITNESS TO HARVEY'S DISAPPEARANCE

He tackled the mystery cat to the ground, or at least the shadow. They grunted, and tried to shove him off. The cat was very strong, but Harvey's body weight, strength, and gravity combined was no match for the mystery cat. However, at that moment, Juliet happened to jog by. She paused at the sight of Harvey and the mystery cat wrestling. Juliet went in for a closer look. Just as she came close, someone threw a computer chip at Harvey, which imbedded in his fur (We need some way to track him just in case). Then, suddenly, Harvey and the mystery cat vanished. At least the computer chip held fast.

Subscribe again for more on Harvey's disappearance!

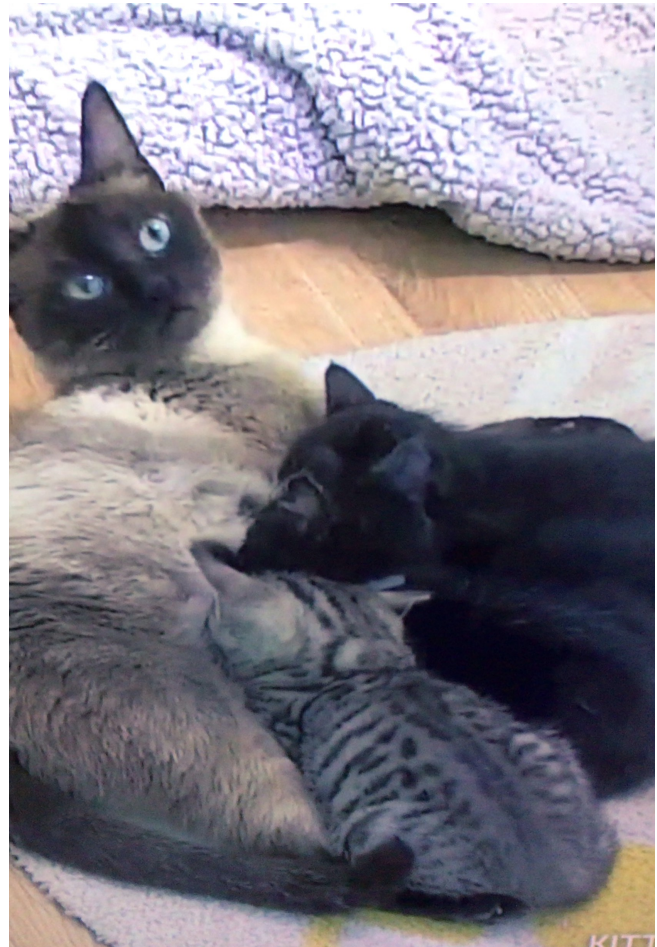

Image above - Lunch, who heard Harvey's alert come in but didn't quite know what to do at the moment.