

CATS ILLUSTRATED

For forgetting their meeting, the strange cat attacked!

Because cats forgot that the strange cat was meeting Coffee on Monday at 8:00 P.M., the strange cat made a small attack on Coffee's palace. The palace is a very fortified place, but even it is not a match for the powers of the strange cat. The strange cat somehow walked straight through the front gate and somehow tossed the guards to the side with the wave of a hand. It almost looked like it made the metal of the guards' armor move. However, not all cats fell as easily as this. All the guards were dispatched with ease, but cats who just wore clothes were slightly harder to defeat. One cat was doing very well in the fight, with no clothes or armor, but was defeated when their catPhone buzzed very loudly and painfully. The one cat who fought the best was actually Coffee, who did not have any clothes, armor, and even with pleading, Coffee had not been able to convince Harvey to get him a catPhone. Coffee was planning to use his power as the leader of all cats to reverse that decision.

Image above - Lunch, who was part of the defending troops and got bamboozled.

The strange cat actually looked a little scared when Coffee advanced. However, they still taunted him. “Oh look. Aren’t you the itty bitty kit who’s supposed to be the leader of all cats? Personally I thought that you would be bigger. At this age, you aren’t very smart - I mean, you couldn’t even answer a college level math problem. Now, I’m going to close my eyes and wait for you to run away like a mewling kit.” The strange cat closed their eyes. Coffee didn’t think before he hit them right in the eye. The strange cat stumbled back, and Mavis, swinging a war club, caught a blow on the strange cat’s back. There was a pop, and a grunt of pain from the strange cat. They opened their eyes, and told Coffee, “Ahh. Playtime’s over, isn’t it?” And with that, the strange cat disappeared.

Image above - Sushi, one of the defending cats who nearly got in the path of Mavis’s war club. It was a very traumatic experience.

After shaping everything back up in Coffee’s palace, Coffee finally got the chance to voice an idea that he had. “I think that the strange cat can control stuff that isn’t living material.” Many cats gasped, but more nodded.

“Mavis has a good idea, but I doubt that any doctor would amputate by request.”

- COFFEE

Mostly the guards whose suits of armor had flung themselves into the gardens. Coffee continued, “I was very powerful because I didn’t have anything on me, even a catPhone. So, as a request from your leader, fight light. Don’t give the strange cat materials to work with.” Coffee looked at Mavis, who had shed a tear as she looked at her war ax. Then, she brightened. “Does any cat here know a cat who has died recently? I’d pay well to use one of their chubby forelegs as a club!” Mavis looked around hopefully, but no cat volunteered any information. “Then is there a way temporarily amputate a limb?” Again, Mavis got no response.

Subscribe again for more fighting and action!