
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Sushi has continued the fashion of clothes!

Sushi, a friend of North's and one of Harvey's former therapy clients, has continued the fashion of clothes. It has been a while since an issue like this has been written, but Sushi has been wearing clothes quite often and the clothes are becoming something like a second skin to her. However, this will not help in the fight against the strange cat, who can manipulate any non living material. There has been some debate as to how far this extends, and cats are arguing whether a dead cat's limb counts as living or non living material. But Sushi, even with begging from her kittens and mate for her safety, believes that the clothes will do her good in the fight. And once Sushi has made up her mind (usually I would say no one can change it, but that isn't true), only Harvey, with begging, can change it. However, Harvey is off trying to keep angry people away from Lunch's Luncheon because of the fact that she uses special honey and sugar in some of her meals. Lunch has just pledged to list the ingredients of any meal to a customer thinking about ordering on ask, and that has made most of the cats happy.

Image above - Sushi, wearing clothes around her kittens.

Sushi's clothes aren't quite proper clothes. They are very similar to Mavis's first ones, which consists of a vest around the belly with 4 leg holes. But the real thing that has got many cats interested is the fact that the clothes have a pocket for a catPhone, and extra padding on the inside to help lighten the weight of the surprisingly heavy half metal vest that is in the clothes. Sushi has fashioned armor that doesn't look like armor. Many cats want to buy these new clothes, but Sushi has not made them in bulk yet. However, popularity with the idea has been rising.

Harvey and Mavis want this kind of armor too, but they know that it would only weaken them against the strange cat. So, Mavis and Harvey went to a special garden that sold strong reeds meant for baskets. They bought them in bulk, and attached little pots made out of hard compact yeast with soil in them. Mavis and Harvey spent hours harvesting and replanting the reeds, until they had a strong vest made out of only living organisms.

“Sushi has a good idea, she just needs to use living material, not metal.”

- MAVIS

Harvey stored the vests away for later, and Mavis managed to fashion a reed axe with the pots of soil in the middle. It was surprisingly strong, and Mavis felt confident for the first time in a while.

Coffee was also getting ready for a fight. However, when he had punched the strange cat in the eye, a mini GPS chip had attached itself to them. Coffee had tracked the strange cat to an abandoned building in a dirty part of town, and with a last check of the note he had left for Harvey, Coffee left alone to find the strange cat.

Subscribe again for more on Coffee's solo adventure!

Image above - Harvey, who's taking a break after long hours laboring with reeds.