

CATS ILLUSTRATED

Naya has caused chaos in the high school!

By turning the students against each other, Naya has caused enough chaos in the high school that has gotten 28 students suspended for fights, 129 detentions, and 84 calls to parents in a single day. However, evidence is starting to lead back to a brown and tan cat who seems to have told students basically that everyone and everything was against them. Luckily, we were able to slip in an undercover reporter at the beginning of the day (we have been keeping tabs on Naya), and they have caught everything she did on film. Read more and find out what really happened.

Image above - Harvey, who doesn't even know what to say to Naya anymore.

The day in the high school started out like normal. Cats came and went, some went to early club meetings, and everything was going according to plan when a cat by the name of Stripes heard from a brown and tan cat (Naya) that her tomcatfriend Sir Maximus the Second had a date with another she cat. Stripes pushed her way through the crowds of cats, starting 2 fights on the way, until reaching Sir Maximus the Second, who was with his friends. "Well? Do you like another she cat?" Stripes was nearly hissing, and while Sir Maximus the second looked at Stripes, confused, a brown and tan cat slipped into the art room and told the cats there that the drama club was using their new paints as multi colored rivers for a play.

The art cats ran to the the drama club room and opened the door with a bang. The brown and tan cat had disappeared, but sure enough, the new paints were being used for multi colored rivers. Naya had done this of course. And there it was. Another fight. 10 detentions given out, and 4 threats to call parents. While the fight still ran strong, a brown and tan cat went into the cafeteria, grabbed a bucket of mashed potatoes, and hid behind some tables, sniping anyone who came in. The shots looked like they were coming from a table to the left of Naya, with 3 big cats sitting there. They did have large helpings of mashed potatoes, and Naya continued throwing food. Eventually, one of the cats at the table was hit by a mashed potato ball, and started another fight. With food. And in the chaos, a brown and tan cat slipped away.

"That brown and tan cat did look pretty sneaky, and they did lie to me."

- STRIPES, WHO ISN'T ANGRY AT SIR MAXIMUS THE SECOND ANYMORE

Finally, at a school dance later in the day, Naya hid out behind some bleachers with 3 disks in her paws. When the majority of cats were on the dance floor, Naya threw the 3 disks in rapid succession at the feet of the cats on the dance floor. The result was spectacular in Naya's eyes. 7 cats fell from the first pass alone, and when the disks boomeranged back from hitting the walls, 15 more cats were felled. Cats were angry, and at the dance alone, 24 individual fights were started.

Subscribe again for more on this crazy day!

Image above - Judy, who thinks she knows who this certain brown and tan cat is.