
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Naya has been caught stealing!

Naya was caught stealing when she tried to get a large bar of chocolate for free by tucking it away. However, the convenience store worker must have seen her slip away that chocolate bar, because they accused Naya of stealing. She grudgingly showed the chocolate bar, and the convenience store worker called the police. Naya was arrested by early evening, and she is currently being questioned about her intentions by the police. However, this small theft is not what Naya was worried about. A couple of the police officers at the station seemed to recognize her and 1 of them had dialed the local high school. Sure enough, soon a teacher came by with Stripes, Naya's first victim. The teacher asked Stripes if Naya was the cat who had told her the lie, and Stripes nodded. The teacher paled and turned to tell the police chief something. Naya guessed that it was something along the lines of “she’s the cat who disrupted the whole high school”.

Image above - Naya, when she saw the convenience store worker running up to her.

As Naya waited for the inevitable, a sentence, Harvey and Lunch were watching Coffee duel the strange cat in the strange arena inside the strange house. Harvey wanted in on the action, but Lunch warned him against it. “We have to wait for the right time,” she told Harvey. Harvey sighed in disappointment, but heeded Lunch’s words and waited some more.

Naya gulped as she saw the police chief and the high school teacher walking toward her. “Were you the cat who disrupted the high school yesterday?” The police chief had obtained a grim expression. Naya gulped again and answered. “Yes. That was me.” To Naya’s surprise, the police chief burst out laughing. “Well, all I can say is that you pulled a good one. I’ve never seen so many angry high school cats.” The high school teacher indignantly whispered something to the police chief, who spoke again. “Of course, you will have to pay for all of the damaged equipment, but I’m guessing you could just pay for it with the money in your wallet right now. It’s 150 dollars.” Naya reached for her wallet which was on an examination table next to her.

“Naya’s a pretty clever cat, I’ll have to give her that, even if she uses it to cheat.”

- MAVIS

dollars, it’s fine to be a little short.” Naya gave up 139 of the dollars in her wallet, smiling to herself as the police chief walked away, feeling satisfied.

Subscribe again for more of Naya’s shenanigans!

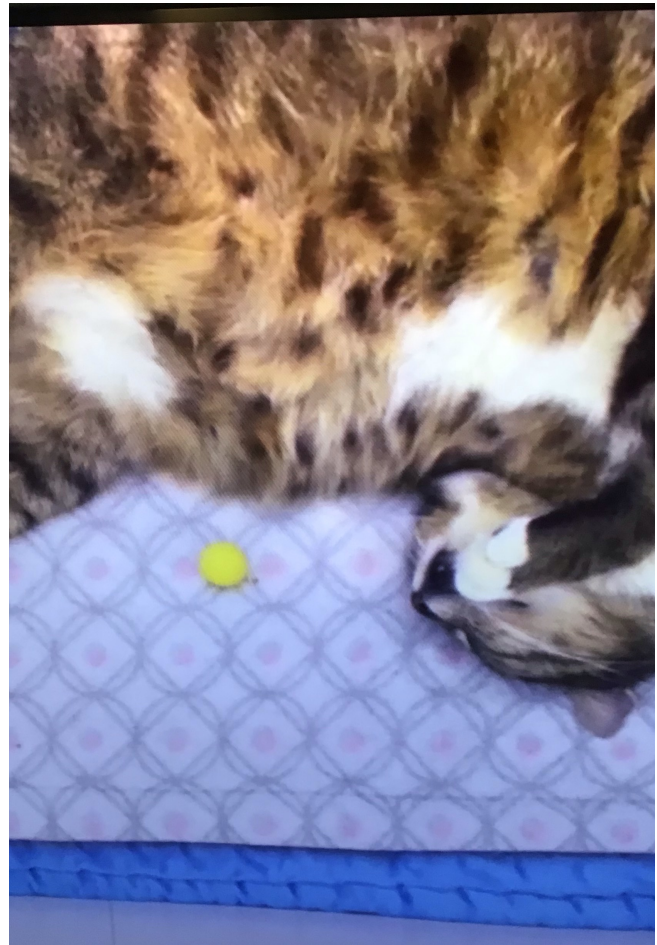

Image above - what Harvey feels like doing right now. He could use a long nap.

She opened it up, picking around the dirty tissues she stuck in it to make her wallet bulge and seem uncared for. Naya had 169 dollars in her wallet, but she did not feel like giving 150 of them away.

“Oh, shoot. I only have 139 dollars in here.” Naya said, trying to sound disappointed. “I’ll have to pay you another time.” The police chief wasn’t so happy about this. “Just pay 139