
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Time does not pass in the strange house!

By waiting by the house for over an hour, Lunch has figured out that in the strange house, in which Coffee and the strange cat were, time did not pass at all. It was strange, but Lunch was looking at her watch and found out that the time thing extended to the whole property of the strange house. It had been 11:00 for over an hour. That meant that whenever Lunch and Harvey came in, that would be when they came out. Coffee would be different - or maybe the same if he were with Lunch and Harvey. Harvey had gone to get his Jeep, install it with some super powered jets, and then come back. Now, Lunch could see him driving up. Already? Harvey had barely been gone for 5 minutes! This house was a 60 minute walk from Harvey's house! Well then again, time doesn't seem to pass in the strange house's property. So, Harvey might seem to go extra fast. Harvey came into the property, and checked his watch against Lunch's. "Wow," he said, "I'm going to emerge way later than you, Lunch." Harvey's watch said 12:13, because of his trip for his Jeep.

Image above - Lunch, who's puzzled by this new realization.

Lunch slipped slowly and quietly through the open door of the strange house. It was pretty dark, but Lunch could see the arena clearly for some reason. This would make it easy to sneak down close to the arena without the strange cat or Coffee seeing. Harvey was working on a distraction, and would distract Coffee and the strange cat while Lunch went into the ring and retrieved Coffee. Lunch was just at Coffee's side of the dueling ring when a large crash on the opposite side of the room made the strange cat and Coffee turn. Well, Coffee didn't have to. A Jeep was zooming down the stands, at an incredible speed. Suddenly, the rocket boosters activated, sending the Jeep high into the air. On the curved wall of the dueling ring, it came down very fast, running over the strange cat (they had disappeared, of course), and drove right past Coffee, up the wall, and did a backflip, and then started to come crashing down. Harvey boosted his chair and landed outside the ring, leaving the Jeep to crash down beside a stunned Lunch and a shocked Coffee. The Jeep was in better shape than Lunch had expected but it was still bad.

“That’s strange - I swear I saw that cat twice in 5 minutes - but they drove off?”

- A BYSTANDER

they watched Harvey and Lunch get ready to rescue Coffee. Eventually, Harvey stepped out of the strange house's property, and all 3 cats left.

Subscribe again for more of the time element!

Image above - Harvey, who's thinking of multiple distraction ideas, 3 out of the 4 involving a Jeep.