
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Rice and Rice jr. are following Ice!

As Juliet and Rudy have been recovering from their shock over their kittens' disappearance, Rice and Rice jr. have been zooming along the road to who knows where. Rice knows that Ice has some kind of device that can track a certain car, and if he is following it, then they should too. In the couple of days that have passed, Rice is having less and less headaches, nausea waves, and sluggishness from his concussion. Rice jr. is awake a lot more often, and Rice has had to stop a couple of times to buy more snacks and drinks. This is good news, because judging on how easily they took Rice and Rice jr. out, Ice and his crew might not stand a chance, even with Rice and Rice jr. as backup. Rice was pondering this, when suddenly, Ice's car, far in the distance, came to a sudden stop. Rice hit the brakes, and swerved out of the main road onto the side stretch. Then, he got out his binoculars.

Image above - Juliet, who's distraught at her kitten, Rice jr.'s disappearance.

Harvey jumped when Ice suddenly hit the brakes. "What is it?" He asked, trying to peer over the front seat. Suddenly, Ice ducked just before the front window shattered. Harvey got just enough of a glance to see the thief cat standing there, breathing hard. Then, Harvey, Mavis, and Ice opened their car doors and jumped out. A half mile back, Rice and Rice jr. got out of the car, in full armor with axes in hand. Back at Ice's car, the thief cat advanced, and with a mighty shove, pushed the car into the ditch. With a roar, Mavis charged. The cat caught her shoulder with seeming ease and flung her out of the way. Mavis got up, but she was now wary of this cat.

Together, Harvey and Ice charged. But Ice stepped back at the last moment as Harvey impacted and then jumped and sat on the cat. They looked disoriented, and when they tried to push Harvey off with sheer force, Harvey didn't move a bit. Ice took the opportunity to jump into his car and grab a metal bar that was his fighting weapon of choice. However, the thief cat was battering Harvey with surprisingly strong front paws, and poor Harvey was forced to get off. The thief cat leaped up, only to get tackled over the head by Mavis, who slammed them against the ground three times. But they were only dazed, and Mavis, a bit confused, retreated. That was when Rice and Rice jr. barreled in, swinging battle axes. Rice slammed the thief cat from the right with the flat side of the blade of his axe, and Rice jr. made an over hand smack of the heavy wooden handle to the thief cat's shoulder. Mavis and Harvey both charged, and in the thief cat's surprised moment, they grabbed them by different parts of their body and pinned the thief cat down. Rice and Rice jr. stood guard.

Subscribe again for the final fight!

Image above - what Mavis saw when the thief cat flung her away (she was seeing her life before her eyes).

“Getting slammed into the ground by me 3 times should have at least broken a bone!”

- MAVIS, WHO IS A BIT CONFUSED