Harvey is not recovering!

Since Ice, Rice, Rice jr., Mavis, and Harvey came back with the thief cat as their prisoner, many things have happened. Rice and Rice jr. reunited with their mamas, Ice took the thief cat to the police station and gave the police special warnings as to how strong the thief cat actually is. Rebecca's Ice cream shop sold out of cabbage Ice cream, because Mavis skipped dinner to get a very large treat for herself. However, the worst thing that happened was that Harvey fell into a very deep sleep on the way back from apprehending the thief cat. He is in the hospital, but has not woken up. He looks very ill, and has had to be fed by someone else. Cats got really worried when Harvey stopped breathing entirely for 10 whole seconds. Doctors got a ventilator ready just in case. North has been very worried for his father.

Ice came to visit Harvey after dropping the thief cat at the police station. He was immediately attacked by a very sad North, who was shouting, “how could you let this happen,” between sobs. Makenna pulled him away, and Ice went over to look at Harvey, who had just been put on the ventilator. Ice put a paw on Harvey’s belly, feeling for a heartbeat. There was none. “His heart has stopped beating.” Ice told the doctors. North overheard and collapsed into uncontrollable crying. Harvey could well be dead - but if he wasn’t, he would be soon. But what was causing this strange drop of health?

Ice immediately thought of the thief cat. Ice ran out the door of the hospital and drove as fast as he could to the police station. He flashed his senior detective card to the officers interrogating the thief cat, and then sat down in the chair meant for the interrogator. “What did you do to Harvey!” Ice asked, impatience flickering across his face. “Oh, I see you have found my ace in the hole.” The thief cat responded, “It’s all the work of this little thing right here.” The thief cat tossed a small vial in the air, and Ice used one of the mechanical arms in the police station to grab it. “No fair!” The thief cat pouted.

that made Harvey so sick. And if it was, Ice needed the doctors to come up with an antidote for it.

Ice dropped the vial in a little tube with the mechanical arm, and he waited for it to come out on his side. It did, and he examined it. Surprisingly, the little bottle had a label. It read, “American red flower nectar”. Ice pocketed the vial and ran back to his car. “What about me?” The thief cat shouted to him, “are you just going to leave me here?” Ice didn’t respond. He had other, more important work to do. This vial could have been the thing
