
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Harvey is dead!

As Ice rushed as fast as he could back to the hospital, the doctors in the hospital knew something was wrong when the ventilator suddenly stopped. They went over to it, and it showed a large message on the control screen. It said, “patient has passed away. Respiratory help is no longer required.” The doctors looked up with grave faces, at an anxious North and Makenna. North and Makenna were beckoned over, and when they saw the ventilator’s message, they both collapsed in grief for Harvey.

Image above - North, who can’t see, hear, or feel anything else right now. He is hugging Harvey’s lifeless body.

Sure enough, when doctors looked through the scans on Harvey’s heart from the previous 5 minutes, there was no beat. Harvey must have finally died. Cats all over are crying over this, and we at Cats Illustrated have gotten a little sniffly too. Harvey was a great cat, and cats shall remember him well. His overwhelming love of sugar, Jeeps, and caffeine. No other cat could ever hope to replace him in North and Makennas' hearts.

At this moment, cats were already coming to collect Harvey's body. However, Ice returned at that moment, learned of Harvey's death, and then helped North keep the cats out. Harvey should be left undisturbed for at least a little bit. When Mavis heard this, she went and dropped off a cabbage so Harvey could have good feasting in the afterlife. Then, she made an announcement about Harvey's death to his wrestling fans. Now even more cats were sad. But Ice wasn't done yet. He checked Harvey all over with every medical method he knew (he knew more than the average doctor), but Harvey was completely unresponsive.

Lunch and Rebecca closed their shops to mourn Harvey. North was inconsolable, and didn't even acknowledge Naya when she curled up next to him. Mavis thought about taking a video of Naya's strange and foreign act of kindness (at least to Naya) and use it to blackmail her later. But Mavis decided against it. However, North was so sad he asked for someone to poison him so he could be with Harvey in the afterlife. Naya, Mavis, and Makenna had to work together to restrain North from grabbing some fatal drugs and killing himself. He was too sad to even talk after he was stopped.

"If Jerry, the medical professional, says Harvey is dead, I have to believe him."

- ICE

Ice called the best medical professional he knew, and they came fast to check out Harvey's body for any sign of life. They did many more checks than even Ice, who watched in fascination as Harvey was checked over again and again. However, when the medical professional was done, they said, "Nothing. I'm sorry, but this cat has passed away." But for the first time in their life, the medical professional was wrong.

Subscribe again for more on Harvey's death.

Image above - Lunch, who closed Lunch's Luncheon for the day so that she and her employees could mourn Harvey.