

CATS ILLUSTRATED

This fight is getting bloody!

As 3 ambulances and a police car drove toward Rudy and Judy, the fight continued. Judy had taken care of Ghost and Phantom, and was heading toward the car. Now, Rudy was angry. Kittens were okay hurting her kittens, but not other mama cats. However, Judy broke into large strides and reached the car before Rudy could catch up, spinning with her ax and hitting the front of the car. The car shuddered, on the edge of the ditch. Rudy jr. fired a cannon shot as the car fell off the road, but it went high and missed Judy altogether. There was another mini explosion from inside the car, which was probably Blackspots jr.'s system. Now both Rudy jr. and Blackspots jr. were out of the fight. It was only Gingerbread and Rudy against Judy. Suddenly, Judy leaped toward Gingerbread, and with a mighty blow of her ax, knocked the sword right out of their hands. Gingerbread looked at Judy in fear and started to run off, but fell over unconscious when Judy sent their sword after them. Rudy was appalled.

“You don’t attack a fleeing kitten,” Rudy told Judy in a menacing voice. “You’ve already defeated them. Do you think that that isn’t enough!” Rudy’s eyes lit up. “You attacked my kittens. And you will pay.” And with that, Rudy launched blow after blow at Judy with her large and heavy club, Judy, with her failing strength, did her best to deflect and parry the blows. But some of Rudy’s blows struck home. Judy now had too many bleeding wounds to count, and finally, she collapsed to the ground, unable to fight anymore. Judy wasn’t just injured, she seemed sick. The poison arrow Phantom had shot had taken a toll on Judy. Rudy breathed hard, looking around at all of the injured cats. And then, she too collapsed and fell unconscious.

Rudy and Judy both woke up in the hospital. Their first questions, though they wouldn’t ever admit it, were whether the other was okay. Both were yeses, but Judy was in a lot worse condition than Rudy, whose worst battle wound was a long cut from Blackfur’s axe. All of the kittens were okay, but Sir Maximus jr. had suffered some broken ribs and Gingerbread had suffered a mild concussion. But all in all, apart from mild wounds, every cat was okay. But both Rudy and Judy agreed on one thing. Don’t ever carpool together again.

- MAVIS, WHO’S RELIEVED

Of course, Ice, Rice, and Rice jr. were long gone. However, Rudy and Judy’s fight still made it to their radio station, which is saying something. Rice is hoping that Rudy as forgotten the jumping on the belly incident. But Rudy still remembers.
