
CATS ILLUSTRATED

The Military have arrived!

As most cats have hidden away in their basements, almost no cats actually heard the military arrive. Now, to details about what Coffee sent. In the military shipment, there were 100 armed soldiers, carrying guns and knives each. 3 tanks were also sent, with drivers and 5 more soldiers in each one. Then, as the bombers have planes, 5 warplanes have been sent, with guns, pilots and co-pilots, and 3 soldiers in each plane. This was a full fighting force, and the police were obviously happy with it.

Image above - Rudy, who hopes the fighting doesn't reach her house.

"We could've done with 1 tank and 3 planes, but Coffee was generous to send more. You can never expect the outcome of a fight before it happens," says the police chief, who feels like the bombers are going to meet their match, “I just hope that the fight doesn’t get too out of control and turns into a small war.”

At the moment, the police force were putting the soldiers into teams. The police had already brought out their 3 armored vehicles (not your regular police car) and were loading themselves and soldiers into them. However, a bombing plane had seen this, and had obviously gone back to tell their comrades, because a half dozen planes were flying straight over the police base. “Their going to bomb us!” A soldier shouted, and the soldiers not in vehicles ran for cover. The tanks and armored police vehicles were unharmed, as this is what they were meant for. The 3 tanks fired warnings shots at the planes, which flew away. The warplanes flew into sight then, chasing the bomber planes away. The tanks and armored vehicles split up with teams of 5 soldiers to patrol the city.

Rudy and Harvey were able to glimpse a tank, some soldiers, and an armored police vehicle from in their houses. Unlike most of the cats in the city, they did not believe that it was doomsday. Harvey and Rudy took photos, and posted them on their Catstagram accounts. Many cats from different countries knew about the situation where Rudy and Harvey lived, and were worried for them.

Bombers were not good news.

“If there is a fight, the bombers will be defeated, but lots of things will be damaged.”

- NORTH, WHO IS CONCERNED FOR HIS CITY

was soon the target of gunfire from a nearby tank, and had crashed after its engine was smashed. But then the other bombers had come back, furious.

Subscribe again for a full blown fight!

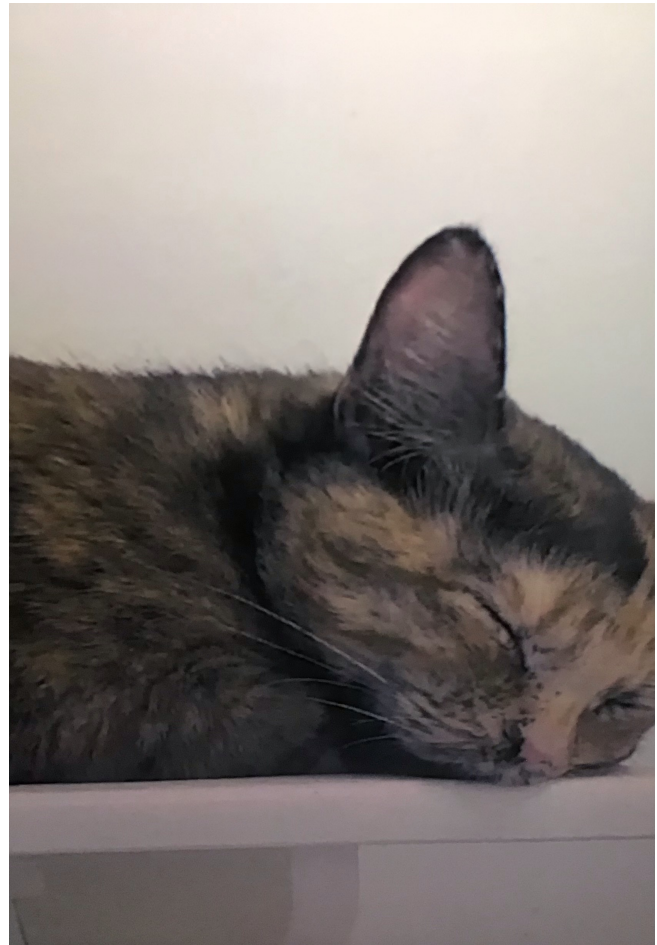

Image above - Judy, who is sleeping peacefully in her basement even though tanks are rolling right by her house.

Outside, the situation had escalated a bit. One of the bolder bombers had dropped a bomb near a team of 5 soldiers, which exploded near the soldiers. None had died, thank goodness, but 1 was fatally injured and 2 others had large cuts. The military physician had said that the soldiers would survive. However, those soldiers had friends. The bombing plane that had dropped the bomb

