
CATS ILLUSTRATED

The bombers and soldiers are fighting!

When a bomber dropped a bomb near 5 cat soldiers, fatally wounding one and wounding 2 more, this provoked other soldiers to fight. The soldiers shot down the bomber plane that had dropped that one bomb, but this had alerted the other bombers, who were now taking turns dropping bombs on a tank. The tank's armor was strong, but it wouldn't last forever against a barrage of bombs. The soldiers in the tank pointed the gun up, and released a few rounds of bullets at the bomber planes. The bullets penetrated, and another plane fell from the sky. 3 more had taken damage, but it wasn't over quite yet.

Image above - Judy, who is awake now and fears for the above - ground part of her house.

The bombers in the damaged planes called their fellows over a radio as the cat soldiers radioed for backup, still firing at the planes. All 3 of the damaged planes fell after more shots. But by now, 8 more planes were headed to help avenge wounded or dead comrades. However, a force of 20 soldiers had been called, along with another tank and an armored police vehicle. The warplanes were circling high in the sky, unable to shoot because of the possibility that they might hit their own friends. One warplane dropped to the altitude of the bomber planes, and let a missile fly, banking sharply to the right. The missile hit one of the bomber planes on the wing, exploding and sending the plane down, down, down, until it crashed.

While some cats thought that the fight was nearly over, the bomber cats had some tricks up their sleeve. The planes suddenly dropped the part of their plane that held the bombs, and the containers fell, fell, and fell to explode on the ground. And in the place of the bomb container, were 2 high tech guns and a missile slot. The planes were much stronger than expected. However, all 5 warplanes had come to the level of the bomber planes, and opened fire. The tanks shot larger and stronger missiles, easily blowing up 2 bomber planes. The bomber planes fired right back, however, and one of the warplanes had to land after its wing was damaged. On the Image above - Harvey, who heard a crash and then a small explosion and fears the worst.

“I don’t think any cat could hibernate through that noise.”

- JUDY, WHO HERSELF WAS WOKEN UP BY THE GUNFIRE ground, however, the 3 soldiers in the plane took out their rifles and started shooting up at the planes. The third tank and the rest of the armored police vehicles were nearly there, and all 100 soldiers Coffee had sent (except for the 3 injured ones), were shooting their pistols and rifles at the bomber planes. All the gunfire was taking a toll on the bomber planes, though, and now it was down to 3 planes. However, with the 3 tanks and 4 warplanes firing along with 97 soldiers, they were completely outmatched. So, the planes dove straight down, on target to crash into the tanks and soldiers. Only evacuation could save the soldiers now.

Subscribe again for more gunfire!