
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Judy has woken up!

As you may have learned in the last issue, only Judy had the whole story from the shooting of her and Rudy. And luckily, Judy woke up this morning and is going to tell about what happened at the park soon. Rudy and Judy compared chubby bullet wounds, but one of the hospital staff pushed Rudy's bed away from Judy's. Also, doctors and nurses at the hospital have x-rayed both Rudy and Judy's chubby forelegs, and found that Judy's chubby foreleg injury was worse. Even more, there was a higher chance that the chubby foreleg Judy had been shot in could become lame. Rudy's chubby foreleg was probably okay, with only a 16% chance of becoming lame. Judy's chubby foreleg, however, had more of a 43% chance of becoming lame. The hospital staff had only told Rudy and Judy's mates, and their kittens. Rudy and Judy should not know yet.

Image above - Judy,
now awake.

However, back in the resting ward in the hospital, Judy was getting ready to tell the story of what had happened at the park. Here is a live feed.

"It all happened so fast," Judy told her audience, the police chief, a police officer, Max, Blackspots, and all 13 of her and Rudy's kittens. "Rudy and I were strolling in the park, I was talking about the chubby wrestling competition, and then Rudy winced at something and looked down at her chubby foreleg. There was a small wound, already leaking blood. It was a bullet hole, no doubt. Then, Rudy's attacker leapt out from the bushes and hit her over the head. She fell unconscious, and the attacker looked at me. Judy, they said in a deep voice, come with me. No, I shouted back, looking at Rudy's unconscious form, I won't! Rudy's attacker shook their head. So stupid, they muttered, and shot me in the chubby foreleg. I collapsed, and then Rudy's and now my attacker punched me in the stomach. I gasped for breath, and my attacker kicked me hard in my other chubby foreleg, and then ran off into the bushes. I called for help, and an older cat came rushing over. They called an ambulance and the police, and then I lost consciousness."

Image above - an example of kitten brutality.

"I'd like to complain - I did not authorize that photo for use!"

- REBECCA, THE CAT IN THE KITTEN BRUTALITY PHOTO

bigger than me or Judy," Judy nodded, still thinking hard. She and Rudy would like to catch their attacker.

The police chief whistled. "I think that we can charge your attacker with assault and gun violence. Also, do you remember anything else about your attacker?" Judy thought hard, and then spoke, "I think we were attacked by a female cat pretending to be a male cat," Judy noted, still thinking, "this cat held herself in a way that no male cats would." Rudy nodded, and then added, "I think that this cat was Subscribe again for a clue!