

CATS ILLUSTRATED

Judy's surgery is under way!

As Lunch deals with trampoline issues, Judy is getting ready for the surgery of her life. She would be unconscious, of course, but she has to give the go for the surgeons to activate the sleep gas. Max and Judy's kittens are with her right now, but they will leave when the actual surgery begins. Judy's chubby foreleg isn't half as handsome on the inside. However, Judy has just given the go for the surgeons to activate the sleep gas. Max and Judy's kittens have left the room, and for now, while the surgery is going on, we will turn briefly to another topic.

Harvey, while all of this was going on, has tried something very new to him. North helped him make an account on Catple Arcade, and Harvey is trying to get on daily leaderboards of quite a few games now. Also, North is getting tired of reminding Harvey when it was time for him to give a therapy session. If North stayed silent, Harvey would play video games through the whole time slot. Also, North swears to us that Harvey is playing video games late at night when he should be sleeping. Harvey's Catple Arcade name is HarveyDaGamer, and he is already shooting to the top of some leaderboards. However, Harvey had thoughts only for some games, and completely ignores other others. Harvey has told North that he only tries the games that the pros play.

Image above - Rudy, who went home with her kittens on account to not be there when the final surgery results come in.

Well now, back to the main story about the surgery. It is going well and for now, everything is regular. However, right now the surgeons are running important tests on Judy's chubby foreleg, which will determine what will happen to it next. Max and Judy's kittens are back in the room, comforting Judy. If her chubby foreleg has to be amputated, there would be a lot of work to do. Judy would have to go unconscious again, as it would hurt to have a leg severed completely. Also, the wound would need to be sewn up and bandaged. Judy would lose some blood, and would have immense chubby foreleg stump pain for a while.

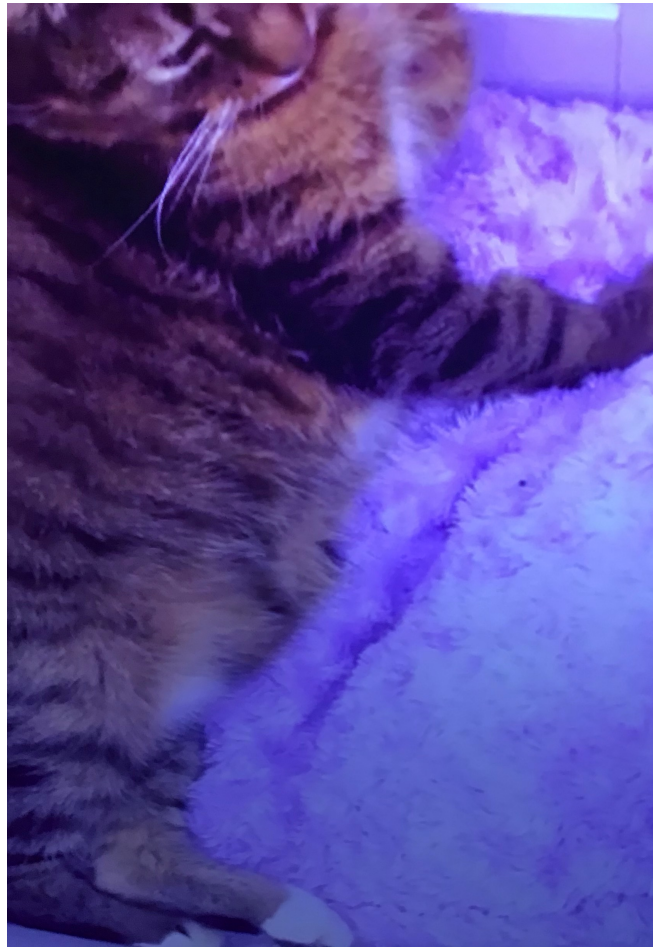

Image above - Harvey who woke up at 2:00 P.M. after playing video games until 12:30 A.M. on the previous night.

“I am so relieved that Judy is okay now - she can come try out my trampoline!”

- LUNCH, WHO DOESN'T QUITE UNDERSTAND THAT JUDY'S CHUBBY NEEDS TO HEAL

Now, the test results have come in. Right now, the surgeons are going over them. One of them is going over to talk to Judy about the results. “Okay Judy, here are the results of the surgery,” the surgeon said, handing a file to Judy, as Max and Judy's kittens crowded around to look, “oh - and also,” the surgeon added, “we managed to find a good brace for your chubby foreleg while it strengthens again.” Judy looked at the report and gasped. The surgery had gone well, and she only needed a type - 2 brace for her chubby foreleg. After 2 weeks, Judy would switch to a type - 1 brace, and then, after 3 more weeks, Judy's chubby would be healed.

Subscribe again for bad news!