

---

CATS ILLUSTRATED

---

The police have arrived!

Finally, after getting a call from Harvey, the police have arrived. They herded Judy and her kittens into a corner, and then banged on Rudy's door, demanding for her to come out. Rudy did, eventually, and the police herded Rudy and her kittens into a corner, along with Blackspots. Then, they were taken into police cars and driven to the station.

Image above - Juliet, who could not be more relieved that this is over.

---

Rudy and Judy had caused a very big mess. Cats nearby had been affected by the tear gas, and there had been 6 serious complaints of stinging eyes. Other cats had complained that their kittens had seen Rudy's house and built their own strongholds in their backyards. One cat complained that Rudy wasn't giving tours of her armored house. However, that was not it.

Rudy and Judy's sisters were appalled at them for fighting, except Naya, who was disappointed that neither Rudy nor Judy won the fight, so she could not lose or make any money. Harvey is disappointed in Rudy and Judy both, and Juliet feels the same way. The police are mad at Rudy and Judy for attacking each other, and roping their kittens into the fight. Kittens should not be using sniper rifles, as of the danger to others and themselves.

As part of the punishment for fighting, the court has ordered both Rudy and Judy to take an anger management class. They will be in separate classes, as not to provoke anything. Also, both Rudy and Judy will pay a sizable fine. The police have also suggested that Rudy and Judy each take therapy, and both Rudy and Judy have called Harvey about that. Harvey told them each yes, gave them completely different times, and told each one that the other could find another therapist. Both Rudy and Judy were happy, even though Harvey felt a bit bad for lying.

Rudy and Judy were permitted to go back to their houses, but there will be police officers around and construction workers taking the armor off Rudy's house. One cat tried to pay for a tour of Rudy's armored house, but was shooed away by police. Blackspots and Max were instructed to keep a close watch on their mates, and keep them out of trouble for now. A situation arose mid evening, when Naya called Rudy, telling her it wasn't too late to keep fighting. Rudy scoffed, and then asked why Naya had even asked. It turned out that Naya just wanted Rudy to win the fight so she could get the money to buy a whole lot of candy. It wasn't going to spark the fight back up, but Blackspots pulled the plug of the phone just in case another call like that happened to come in. However, the rest of the night was very calm. Like the calm before the storm.

Subscribe again for a storm!

Image above - Judy, who is not happy about having to take an anger management class.

“I thought I was the only one with an appointment with you!”

- RUDY, WHILE CONFRONTING A COWED HARVEY AFTER FIGURING OUT THAT JUDY HAD AN APPOINTMENT WITH HIM TOO