

---

CATS ILLUSTRATED

---

Cats are prepping for Hurricane Harvey!

As Hurricane Harvey approaches, cats are thinking about different ways they could prep for it. Rudy is already armoring up her house, but not for war. She is putting water resistant tarps on the roof, and is building some drainage pipes to pump water out of any flooded areas of her house. All the water will go into a very deep well, which Rudy installed just yesterday. However, Rudy is not the only one prepping.

Image above - Juliet, who is thinking about armoring up her house.

---

Judy has thought about where she wants her stronghold to be. She is thinking the basement, and has started seriously armoring it up. The first thing she did was coat the walls in concrete, so that water couldn't get in. Then, she attached a large tank of fresh, chilled water to the wall. She bolted up a couple of fans around the room, for air circulation. Then, Judy brought her kittens' beds down to the basement, and plopped them down on a large rug. Judy brung her mini fridge down to the basement, where she stocked it with all the necessary foods and provisions. She attatched a bicycle to the wall, so that kittens could pedal it and make electricity. The electricity also powered the fans, so if kittens were hot, they had to pedal a bicycle to stay cool.

This wasn't enough for Judy though, because she bought a tub and brought it down to the basement. One end of the basement had the tub in it, so that kittens, Judy, and Max could stay clean. Many cats thing Judy did too much, but Judy doesn't care. She wants to be ready for Hurricane Harvey when it arrives. However, many cats are taking different approaches, such as Harvey.

Harvey is planning to do things to prep for the hurricane that no other cats are doing. Harvey has rented a large camper and is busy packing his stuff into it. He is telling Makenna, North, Reposado, and Juliet to come with him, but they want to stay with their house. They also probably don't want to go because of the fact that the kitchen and extra bedroom are covered in bags of sugar cubes (Harvey wants to make sure he has enough energy). Also, Harvey kind of wants the camper to himself, despite his calls for his family to come with him.

“Does anyone think a video game console is vital to survival?”

- JUDY, WHO'S CONTEMPLATING SNEAKING IN HER VIDEO GAME CONSOLE

As many cats prep and prep and prep for Hurricane Harvey, it is nearly upon them. The first winds are expected to strike overnight, so cats are getting ready for a very, very tough day ahead of them. We are a bit worried too, and just so that we can monitor each cat, we have snuck a camera into each cat's home. Hopefully they don't find out until the issues are out.

Subscribe again for more on Hurricane Harvey!

Image above - Judy, who's tired after a long day's work.