

---

CATS ILLUSTRATED

---

Lunch has woken up!!!

Last night, Lunch stirred out of her coma, and early this morning, she woke up completely! Jake and Lunch's kittens have been with her since then, except when the doctors had to run tests on Lunch to see if she was okay - that was the other good news, that during her coma, Lunch must have recovered from COVID - 19. This is one big bundle of amazing news.

Image above - Lunch, who is getting some rest in her own home.

---

Lunch came home early today and took a little time to bounce on her trampoline. She felt really good - better than she had in days (she wasn't even awake in days, so that may not mean so much). However, Lunch immediately reopened Lunch's Luncheon, and put a special deal on the menu. She'd used it before, and knew it was popular. The deal read, "Buy one meal around lunch and get it half off! (Lunch hours 11 A.M. to 2 P.M.) Harvey will definitely be coming, even though sugar fries don't count as a lunch meal. He'll buy the honey chicken for lunch, and then get a very large side of sugar fries.

However, most cats are very happy about Lunch's Luncheon reopening, and the fact that Lunch is all right. After pleading from her kittens, Lunch's kittens showed their mama all of the coding animations that they had made while she was comatose. Lunch watched a set of 6 similar animations, and then excused herself to get some rest. Lunch didn't rest, though, and played video games under the covers of her bed.

While Lunch is awake and feeling very happy, both Rudy and Judy are not. Last time, Rudy pretended to mug Judy and stole her wallet using the leverage of a fake pistol. Judy did not catch Rudy, but is plotting a heist involving getting her wallet back. Rudy had no doubt already spent some of the cash in Judy's wallet, but refrained from using the credit card - Rudy isn't a monster. However, she is starting to cross a line - if Judy wanted to, she could probably get Rudy in trouble with the law. However, Rudy would call Judy a coward if she did so, and that decided in Judy's mind that she would take care of this herself.

“Mama doesn't usually share, but she let us have some of her chips!”

- RUDY'S KITTENS

expectant - they both expected to be thanked well for their cards, but the other to be scorned for a “bad” get well soon card. Lunch wisely kept silent.

Subscribe again for Lunch's recovery!

Image above - Rudy, who bought herself a jumbo bag of chips with Judy's money.

However, both Rudy and Judy were relieved when Lunch woke up. They both made get well soon cards, and rushed to see who could get to Lunch first. Judy won by half a minute, but Lunch wasn't even done reading Judy's card when Rudy burst in and shoved another card into Lunch's paws. Both Rudy and Judy looked at Lunch, out of breath and