
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Video game tryouts are continuing!

Since some time has passed since that last issue, we will give you a recap on what happened in groups one through four. Judy and her kittens demolished most of the competition in group one, but were sniped by another team at the very end, giving them a satisfactory third place finish in the end. Rudy and her kittens hid in the shadows for most of the time in group two, stocking up, and when the remaining three teams were exhausted, Rudy and her kittens staged an ambush. They beat two of the teams, but were hit by a lucky cannon shot from the last remaining team to earn Rudy and her kittens a second place spot. However, all Rudy could think about was that it was better than Judy's finish. In group 3, Jake and his kittens attacked very early, and got very lucky when they found a big bomb that another team had been building. The team had been defeated, but the bomb was still there. Jake and his kittens lured the other teams into an open battlefield with a large pile of supplies in the middle, and then dropped the bomb. The other teams were defeated immediately, and there had to be some replays watched to tell the exact order that the teams were defeated.

Image above - Rudy, who and her 6 kittens made it to the final round.

Juliet, Blackpelt, and their kittens barely scraped by in their game, as some plague had spread through them. The other teams were deeply affected too, and Juliet's team was very lucky to be the fourth to last team defeated. Now, the last round, with Stripy's team has just gotten under way. They are going to their fort, and starting to plan. This game isn't very interesting in this stage, so we will come back in a bit to see how the game has continued.

Lunch, alone back at home, is feeling a bit sad. She really wanted to be part of this tournament, but it is also good that Jake is getting time to bond with his kittens. Lunch is proud of their first place finish in their group, and will be watching the final round very intently. She is very proud of her kittens, even though all they are doing is eating snacks and playing video games.

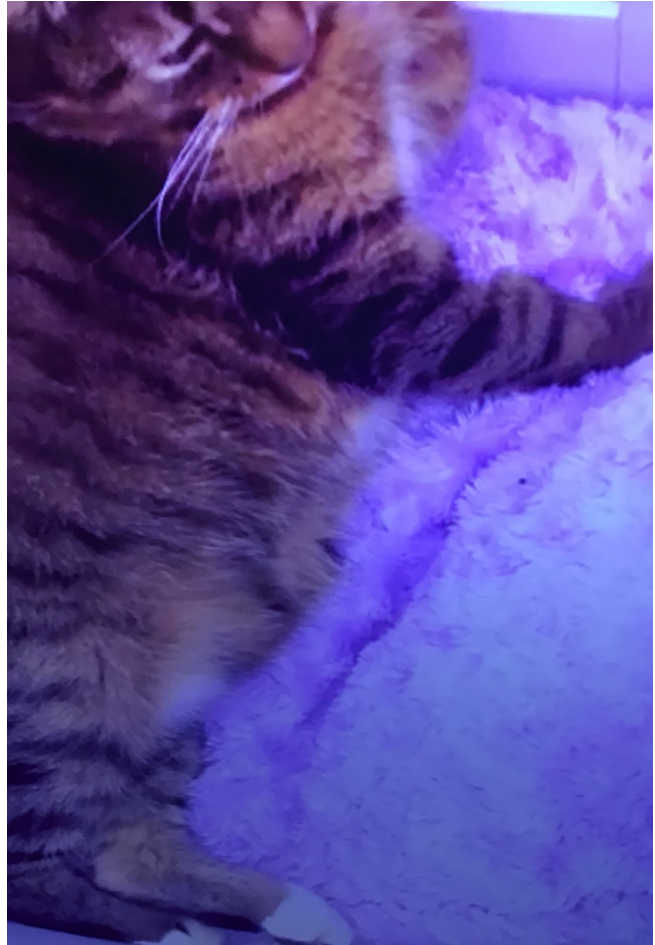

Image above - Harvey, who in real life will cry over a broken down Jeep, but in a video game, cut you open and eat your guts without a second thought.

“Haha, we got second place, and you got third place!”

- RUDY, WHO'S TAUNTING JUDY LIKE A KITTEN WOULD

Now, back to the main event. This last match has progressed a bit, with one team sniping another team. However, Stripy's team is still planning. Harvey is a very good strategist, but we are wondering why the kittens are standing for it. It must have a very gory end in sight, otherwise the kittens would no doubt go on solo missions and get their game characters killed. Unfortunately, Stripy's team might have spent a little too much time planning, because another team was attacking their fort. They were sniped pretty easily, and got very, very lucky for a fourth place finish. However, what were they planning, and would it come up again?

Subscribe again for the final round of the tournament!