
CATS ILLUSTRATED

The final round of the video game tournament is here!

Now, as it is September 5, it is time for the final round of the video game tournament. The remaining teams are very pumped up, except for Juliet's team, which may have to drop out as of the fact that Juliet might have been poisoned. On that subject, the doctors are running more tests on Juliet to see what exactly is in her system. She still has a very bad bellyache, and is not feeling very good.

Image above - Harvey, who is ready for this last round.

The final round of the tournament is to start a little later today, around 10 A.M. It is expected to run past three in the afternoon, as there are 20 fighting teams. We will be covering all of the details of the tournament, and are getting set up by a big TV to watch the teams fight. The teams are getting ready - going out to eat at their favorite restaurants for breakfast, doing a few laps around a track. Judy and her kittens are trying to get some last minute practice in, while Rudy and her kittens are doing a yoga session with Lunch. Stripy and her kittens are out at an all you can eat buffet, and Harvey is counting sugar cubes.

Naya is starting to wish that she has chosen to participate, because of the warfare involved at the sobs of her kittens as they watch other kittens play video games against each other without getting to join in. Mavis's situation is similar, but her kittens have moved on from sadness and have gotten angry. Mavis couldn't find any of her cabbages this morning, nor her video game console. Her kittens were shut up in their room with the door locked, either sulking or playing Mavis's more violent video games. However, Mavis and Naya had a problem. Mavis could probably overpower all of her kittens at once, but if they were angry, they would be stronger. That made a fight sound a bit unpredictable. Naya definitely couldn't overpower all 6 of her kittens, especially if they were angry. She had some weapons, but Mavis had to make sure Naya remembered that these were kittens.

Image above - Rudy jr., who knows what she would've done to Rudy if Rudy had chosen not to participate.

“Yeah - Naya's got to remember that she can't use her club on kittens!”

- LUNCH, WHO'S APPALLED THAT NAYA EVEN CONTEMPLATED USING THE CLUB

Cats are starting to make their way to the video Game Center, as they want to get a feel for the comfiest spots in their room would be. The teams aren't allowed to start playing yet, but are getting themselves ready, setting aside bowls of snacks, and so on. Harvey has brought in some sugar cubes, but had to go through a check as to see if the sugar cubes were sugar cubes, and not some high tech cheating device. The sugar cubes were eventually approved, and Harvey was able to pass. The final round has not officially started yet, but the teams are pumped up and ready to play.

Subscribe again for the final round!