

CATS ILLUSTRATED

These are the final moments of this tournament!

As this video game tournament comes to an end, the tension is high between the six remaining teams. Stripy's team had made their scary walking spider contraption, that was fast approaching the fortress of another team. The other team launched grenades, bombs, gunfire, everything they had against the giant spider. There was barely a dent in the spider as it approached the team's fort, and sent out a shockwave that would defeat the other team immediately. Jake's team saw this, and got ready with all of the bombs, explosives, and rounds of ammunition they had. However, as the giant spider defeated yet another team, and as a third team was sniped from afar by Jake's team, a seemingly wounded character hobbled toward the spider, seemingly begging for mercy. The spider stopped as Harvey's character jumped out, warily asked why this cat had come, and then reluctantly led them in. The door of the spider wasn't even closed when there were shouts of alarm, and the "wounded" cat ran out of the spider. Not 5 seconds later, there was an explosion, and the spider collapsed to the ground, Stripy's team defeated inside it.

Image above - Harvey, who knows he and his team are in the running to be crowned the winning team.

This made Jake mad. Lunch's kittens were even madder. Stripy's kittens were their friends, and Harvey gave them sugar cubes. North did important work for - well whatever he did important work for. Stripy made mystery casserole, and Makenna had sent them a card once. Jake and Lunch's kittens were going to avenge the death of their friends. They brought out the massive war tank that had been constructed, loaded it up with grenades and bombs, and used their long range shooter to shoot the remaining bombs somewhere near the other remaining team's fort. The tank slowly moved forward, but was surely going into battle.

The other remaining team were feeling very pleased with themselves - they had tricked another team and ended up destroying a super strong war vehicle that would have no doubt destroyed them. However, the last team, the one with the big bomb factory, was coming toward them. That tank looked formidable, but this team had a plan. As the tank launched the first long range grenades, the team let loose a giant boulder that would roll down the hill to the tank. However, the boulder never reached the tank, and was exploded almost as soon as it was released. The tank was still moving forward, but it had stopped shooting. In the tank, Jake and his kittens were packing a bunch of small grenades into a big shell - and then, they launched it at the other team. The big bomb fell neatly into the camp, and exploded, defeating the last remaining team.

Subscribe again for winning celebrations!

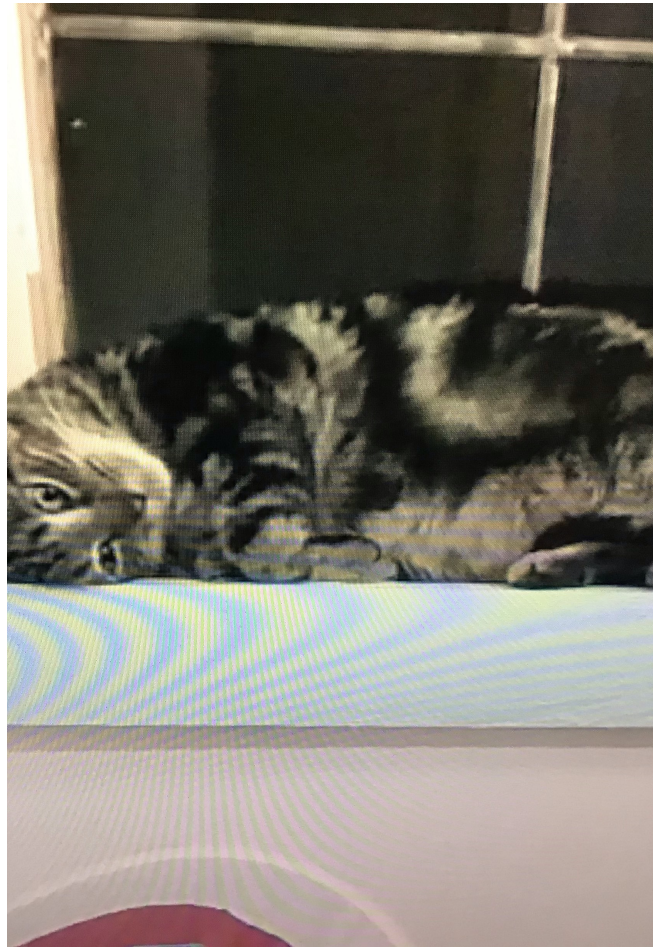

Image above - Stripy, who's going to write a complaint about how that one "wounded" cat tricked them.

"I'm a behaviorist, for your information!"

- NORTH, WHO'S TELLING LUNCH'S KITTENS THIS