
CATS ILLUSTRATED

The county fair is starting!

As of some bad signs on the weather forecast coming up, the start of the county fair was moved forward to today, September 26. Many cats are excited, and were preparing last night for this day.

Kittens were organizing what they would do for the whole day, and a lot of it involved alternation of getting junk food, going on rides, and buying candy. Harvey is preparing a disguise so that he can go undercover and buy sodas. However, Makenna has been keeping a close eye on Harvey, and will make sure that he doesn't go too crazy with soda. North is looking forward to some of the informational exhibits, and may go on a few rides himself. Mavis has been preparing her best cabbages for the juggling show that she will be participating in, Stripy has set up a peacemaking booth where troubled cats can come to sort out problems. Lunch has already set up Lunch's Luncheon's spot, and it is looking very good. Both Rudy and Judy have their swim caps for when they go apple bobbing. Rudy has gloves on, so that when she holds Judy's head underwater, Rudy won't have to touch Judy's fur.

Image above - Harvey, who'll be going undercover to buy soda.

Naya is looking forward to the fair, because she knows that cats will be so focused on having fun that they won't notice when their wallets go missing. Naya's kittens each have some money to spend, and Naya is letting them go off on their own with some friends but no parent supervision. However, Naya's kittens were unhappy with the money that they were given, so they took another 10 dollars each from Naya's wallet. Naya had taught her kittens too well, because she didn't even take a second glance at her visibly smaller wallet.

Today, cats have started arriving, and we are here to tell you that Lunch's Luncheon was booming with customers. Harvey got up at around six in the morning, and drove his Jeep to the fair, already in disguise. Makenna didn't find him until it was way too late, and Harvey had finished his second soda. Harvey then went on some rides, played some games, but sadly for Harvey all under Makenna's supervision. He has just escaped and ordered some sugar fries, but will no doubt soon be tracked down by Makenna.

“Naya was wearing a disguise, so if she came back undisguised it would be fine.”

- MAVIS

Judy jr., Ice, and one of their friends were meeting up at the fair as well. Judy jr. Has a talk scheduled for noon, and Ice will just be at the fair, having fun. Well, who couldn't have fun when you are surrounded by vendors selling the food of your dreams, or while being near rides that you know you will enjoy! Well, most cats were happy, except for Image above - Rudy, who stayed home to get a good breakfast before going to the fair where she would stuff herself with junk food.

Naya, who was caught picking someone's pocket, and was thrown out of the fair gates very roughly.

Subscribe again for more on the county fair!