
CATS ILLUSTRATED

This is the final day of the county fair!

Now, as this is the fourth and final day of the county fair, there has been a lot of setup that needs to be done. There is a flume ride that is coming, another big roller coaster, and a small arcade. Lunch's Luncheon has special deals on usually expensive items, and will be using the freshest of ingredients to make food today. They also are selling Lunch's homemade Ice Cream, which turned out pretty well.

Image above - Lunch, who's looking forward to another day of profit.

Now that she doesn't have her juggling show to worry about, Mavis is going to use this last day to spend extra time with her kittens. Cats have left for the fair already, even though it is only nine in the morning, and others are getting ready to go.

Both Rudy and Judy are a bit traumatized by the roller coaster ride they went on together, and neither of them spoke on their separate car rides to the fair. They each were also traumatized by the fact that they had held on to each other during the ride. However, Rudy had not gotten to hold Judy's head underwater at an apple bobbing stand yet, and was looking forward to that. Lots of cats were going to have a lot of fun at this last day of the county fair - except Harvey. He was very unhappy with what Makenna had decided, and he felt it was too extreme. Makenna had bought a very expensive blood tester, along with a tracker. She pricked Harvey's chubby foreleg, and put on the pad. That would track his blood sugar, and if it raised even the tiniest amount because of sugar from soda, Makenna would get a beep on her catPhone along with a pin pointer of where Harvey was.

Today, Lunch's Luncheon is booming with business - Lunch predicted that not many cats would have eaten a full breakfast, so she served egg sandwiches, pancakes, and waffles. This attracted tons of hungry cats, who had only eaten half breakfasts and didn't want to wait until lunchtime for a meal.

Image above - Juliet, who ate so much she fell asleep.

“Even if Makenna can tell when Harvey drinks soda, it'll take some time to walk to him.”

- NORTH

Now, Rudy has lured Judy to the apple bobbing stand, and dared her to bob for an apple. Judy took the dare, and Rudy held Judy's head underwater until Judy started flailing, getting desperate. Rudy laughed, but gave a grunt of surprise when Judy pushed her head down, dunking Rudy. Rudy had predicted this, though, and bit down on an oxygen pack in her mouth. It was an odd feeling, getting oxygen without breathing. However, even an oxygen pack runs out, and after two minutes, Rudy picked an apple from inside the tank of water and threw it at Judy. Judy released Rudy, and ran off.

Subscribe again for last festivities!

