
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Lunch is being bullied on Flutter!

Yesterday, Jake realized that Lunch had a Flutter account, and for fun, checked to see what was on it. There were a lot of notifications, and for a moment, Jake thought Lunch might be quite popular on Flutter. However, he was very concerned when he read some of the messages. They said things like “your Luncheon is stupid”, and “your name is so weird”, and also, some cats said “go back to the dirty place you came from.” Jake got mad, and went onto his Flutter account, posting some strongly worded comments on those other cats’ profiles. He reported the comments, and took screenshots of them and put them up on catTube, Catstagram, Catbook, and even Cat Tok. A bunch of cats swarmed over the bad comments, and we think even the Flutter developers got in the action. The mean cats were banned, and Lunch's account got a bunch of apologies for what had happened from random cats.

Image above - Lunch, who has been feeling a bit sad lately.

When Lunch got home, Jake took her by her front paw away to talk about what was happening on her Flutter account. Lunch started crying and told Jake everything, that those cats had been bullying her for weeks. They put dislikes on her videos, and were commenting bad things all the time. Lunch's sisters are concerned for her, and have dropped off small gifts at Lunch's door, including cards, cabbages, and casseroles.

Both Rudy and Judy have tried to offer advice, saying what they do when the other bothers them. Rudy told Lunch to call the cats who bullied her bad names, so that they would know that she isn't helpless. Judy told Lunch to take out her anger and sadness on Rudy. Neither of these pieces of "advice" really helped Lunch, but Rudy and Judy were both happy that they delivered them. Jake is still concerned for Lunch, and Lunch's kittens have each given Lunch big hugs, acting parent by saying "we'll work this out" and "I'm going to call that bully cats' kittens."

Image above - Juliet, who hopes Lunch feels better.

"I'd say Harvey is well.... - practically an employee he comes so often."

- LUNCH'S LUNCHEON WORKER

Lunch is starting to recover from the bullying, but was annoyed when Jake deleted her Flutter account. Lunch is now working at her Luncheon, serving customers and Harvey with smiles (you can't count Harvey as a customer, or even a regular, he comes so much). Working at her Luncheon is doing good for Lunch, and Jake is glad that she is focusing on something else. He is still not happy about what happened to Lunch on Flutter, but is content to let the Flutter developers work it out.

Lunch's kittens claimed that they wanted to look at the messages on Lunch's Catstagram account, but ended up browsing instead.

Subscribe again for more on Lunch!