
CATS ILLUSTRATED

North and Harvey are leaving on their trip!

As North and Harvey will leave for their business trip soon, cats are starting to say last goodbyes and are sending their best wishes to North and Harvey. North and Harvey are very excited, because they have never been to Egypt before, with new sights, smells, and sugar cubes. We are excited, too, because North has agreed to let us document his trip when he comes back.

Image above - Lunch, who will miss Harvey and North during their trip.

As you may have heard, Stripy is sending a casserole along with North and Harvey so that they aren't hungry on the two plane rides to Egypt. The flight time totals nearly twenty hours, with an hour long stop on the way. This has given other cats ideas, and Harvey recieved some sugar fries from Lunch, and North got and saved a fried fish sandwich from The Wish for Fish. Harvey has packed a small amount of sugar cubes, as something to count and distract him on the plane rides to Egypt.

Kittens from all over came to Harvey, asking whether he could get them a souvenir from Egypt, and Harvey has promised that he'll find a couple things and take them back with him to Pawsville. North on the other hand, has a full schedule, as he is doing interviews and will be attending a conference near the end of his trip. However, every cat wants North to take photos of the Great Pyramid of Giza when he goes with Harvey to tour it. Who knows - a photo of a pyramid may come in handy for us someday.

North and Harvey officially leave in a little bit, and will be going to the airport in about an hour. North is packing last things, and has made sure he has at least half a suitcase of empty space. North knows that he will be bringing more stuff back with him than he took in the first place. Harvey has a small suitcase's worth of space, as he plans to buy some custom sugar cubes and save them until he gets back to Pawsville. Harvey also will surely have a lot of leftovers from all of the places he will try to eat at - Harvey's experience in Egypt is going to be mainly a culinary one.

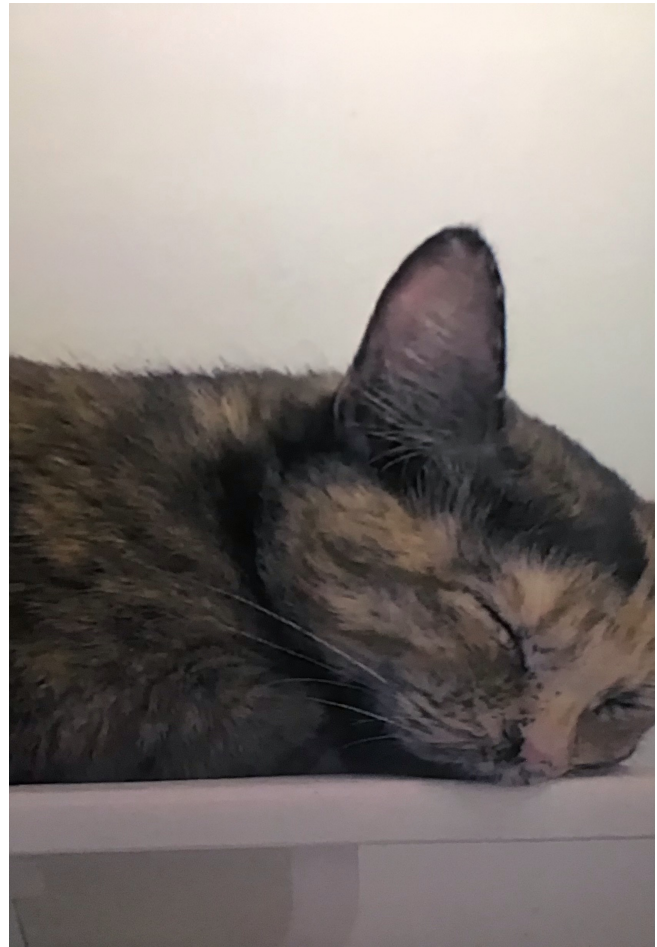

Image above - Judy, who wants Harvey to bring her a sword from Egypt so she can test it on Rudy.

“Oh no you don’t, my kittens will not be filmed or quoted without my permission.”

- LUNCH, WHO IS RUINING THAT IDEA

As North and Harvey have just driven off to the airport, we are wondering who we will be quoting and filming for a week - as Harvey is one of our main candidates. We may have to resort to filming and poking around in the lives of kittens, as there are plenty of juicy stories centered around that kind of thing. However, that may be against the law. It would be just peachy if The Facts found a way to dethrone us while our prize subjects are off in Egypt touring places, working, and eating crazy amounts of sugar cubes.

Subscribe again for more on kittens!