

---

CATS ILLUSTRATED

---

A new buffet restaurant is opening up in Pawsville!

Just in the past week, a new buffet restaurant has opened up in Pawsville. It is called “The Food Mood,” and many cats have gone to it to see what a buffet was. There hasn’t been a buffet in Pawsville for about five years, and most cats can’t remember or weren’t born for the last one.

Image above - Lunch, who is sensing some competition in the tough contest of restaurants.

---

Harvey, still in Egypt with North, is wishing that he could be at that buffet restaurant stuffing himself and then guzzling soda to wash it all down. In fact, the buffet restaurant has been so popular with cats with intentions just like Harvey, that there had to be a waiting list to even get a table. The buffet was so popular, but unfortunately, that meant Lunch’s Luncheon got almost no business. Lunch wasn't in trouble yet, though, because she still had a lot of spare money in her bank account that could be used to pay off Lunch's Luncheon's bills. However, if this continued for too much longer, Lunch's Luncheon could possibly go bankrupt.

The Food Mood serves all the food any cat can imagine, even ice cream. Some cats stay in there for at least two hours, which backs up the line outside even more. One cat near the back of the line set up a tent so that they could be first in line the next day. This buffet has been getting a crazy amount of business, and therefore, lots and lots of profit. We have tried to secure a spot in the long line outside The Food Mood, but it is hopeless.

Many more trucks have been coming into Pawsville after The Food Mood has opened, delivering food, supplies, and more food. There was a whole truck that arrived yesterday delivering a quarter ton of eggs, a hundred pounds of meat, and 200 large boxes of fresh vegetables. Lunch's Luncheon's food shipment came too, but wasn't half as large as The Food Mood's shipment. In fact, Lunch's Luncheon barely needed any food, as there were only ten customers yesterday. Lunch has been getting worried that her Luncheon will go bankrupt, and for good reason.

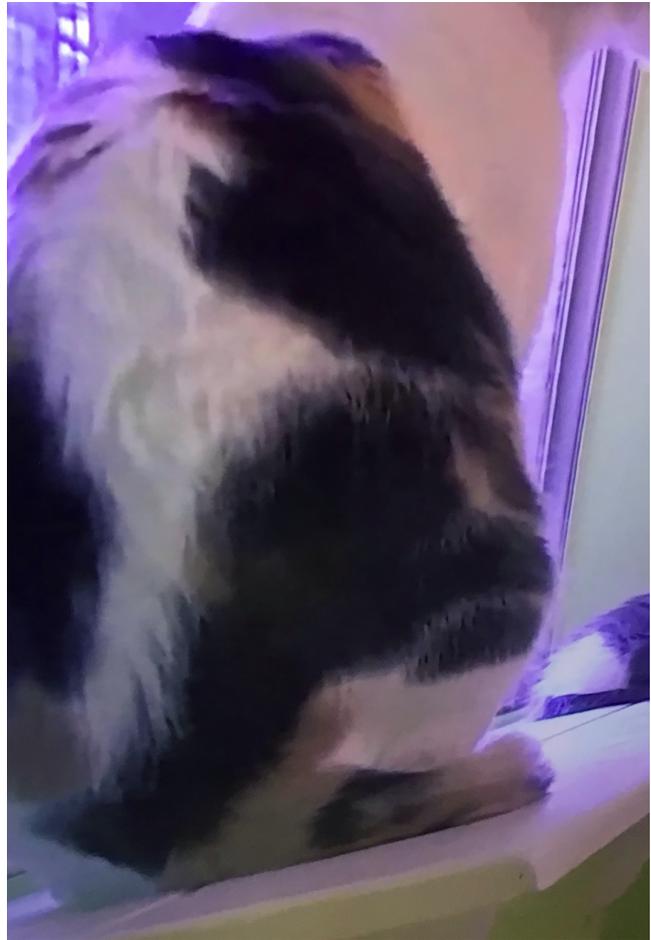

Image above - Rudy, who supports Lunch's Luncheon because she knows Judy is at The Food Mood stuffing herself like a pig, and doesn't want to follow her example.

Naya is happy that The Food Mood opened, but for a different reason. Their bank account doesn't have any security shells protecting it, and Naya lifted a couple thousand dollars from it after hacking into the system. Naya learned to code after taking a short lesson from her kittens, and then modified the commands so that it breaks down preexisting code, therefore, allowing Naya to steal all the money she could ever want. We are not sure that this is a good idea, but then again, The Food Mood's accountant probably won't notice anything missing, the account is so large.

“When I get back, I’m going to eat until I throw up!”

- HARVEY, WHO MIGHT BE TAKING THINGS A BIT TOO FAR

Subscribe again for more on The Food Mood!