
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Cats have been fighting a lot more recently!

For some reason, cats have been fighting a whole lot more recently. In fact, the only cats who aren't fighting are Juliet and Blackspots, who had a fight a little bit ago but now seem ready to make up and apologize to each other, even if their kittens have to make them do it. However, other cats have been fighting a lot more recently, and that makes Pawsville a bit tense.

Image above - Judy, who squirted ketchup in Rudy's eyes and doesn't regret it.

Rudy and Judy have been sparked by something again, and they have had some very colorful fights recently (when we say colorful, we mean with ketchup, mustard, mayonnaise, and other colored condiments), and it kind of peaked when Judy held one of Rudy's kittens down and made them eat spoonful after spoonful of super spicy wasabi. Rudy went into a rage, and knocked Judy out, and then cut off Judy's windpipe until Judy lost consciousness from lack of oxygen. However, Rudy and Judy aren't the only cats who have been fighting. Mavis's temper flared when one of her kittens threw up after eating at Lunch's Luncheon, and Mavis gave Lunch a piece of her mind, and demanded that Lunch use only the freshest ingredients and keep her Luncheon sanitary. It wasn't actually determined whether Mavis's kitten had gotten sick from Lunch's Luncheon, or whether they had just spun around and around until they threw up. Either was quite possible.

Naya got into a fight with a small gang after one of the gang members tried to steal some snacks from one of her kittens, Naya beat up all four of the cats in the gang, and then stormed off. However, the gang, mad at Naya for beating them up, tried to break into her house. But Naya has protection against that sort of stuff, and the gang was not able to get inside. Also, kittens have been fighting, and Juliet's kittens faced off against Lunch's kittens in a battle. Both sets of kittens got pretty banged up, especially Wilbur Spots, who got cut on the forehead and couldn't see because of the blood dripping down his face. Wilbur Spots accidentally attacked one of their fellow siblings before some adult cats broke up the fight.

“You’re so dumb
you attacked
your own sibling!”

- LUNCH'S KITTENS TALKING TO WILBUR SPOTS, AND PROVOKING
ANOTHER FIGHT

without being able to use the bathroom or talk to Judy. Who knew kittens would lock up their own parents.

Subscribe again for more on fights!

Image above - Lunch, who thinks she might just taint Mavis's kittens' food after Mavis criticized her Luncheon's cleanliness.

No cat knows for sure why cats are fighting so much, but even we are tense. Rudy and Judy's fight is still escalating, even though their kittens have gotten tired of the fighting and have stayed out of it. However, Max accidentally poured water on one of his kittens, and all seven of his kittens leaped on him. Max is being held, in chains, in his kittens' bedroom,