
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Rudy has eaten a poisonous mushroom!

After Judy pushed and dared Rudy, Rudy ate a mushroom she found in the forest. It wasn't too poisonous, but it was poisonous nonetheless. Rudy vomited at the taste, and got most of the poison out of her system. However, she has thrown up a few more times overnight. Judy has been yelled at by her sisters, and even Harvey, who is showing an angry side for once.

Image above - Rudy, who feels so sick right now.

Blackspots has taken Rudy to the doctor, and the doctor confirmed that the mushroom Rudy ate was mildly poisonous, and would cause diarrhea and vomiting for a few days before it got out of her system. Rudy was not looking forward to that, and Blackspots asked if there was anything he could do to help Rudy while she was still sick. The doctor has told Blackspots to get Rudy to drink lots of water, and vitamin replenishing drinks such as Catorade.

Rudy has been getting cards and wishes for good health, and even a very stomach friendly casserole from Stripy. It was the only food Rudy could stomach today, even though she only ate a few bites. Right now, Rudy is thinking about how she can get back at Judy for taunting her into eating the mushroom. Rudy still has about twenty pieces of candy from her kittens, and was thinking of making a video of herself eating candy for Judy who has none, but she can't eat candy right now without risking more vomiting. Rudy's kittens have been in their rooms all day, taking advantage of Rudy's current incapacities to play video games and eat candy all they wanted.

Harvey still enjoying candy from Halloween, has not touched sugar cubes for a while. Makenna is interested, as she would much rather Harvey ate lots of candy than pure, processed sugar. In fact, Harvey didn't even notice when Makenna moved Harvey's small stash of sugar cubes from his room to the kitchen, where they would be put to good cooking use. However, Harvey seems to be turning things around.

Image above - Judy, who didn't get any candy for Halloween, even in a trade with her kittens.

“The candy bowl outside my Luncheon is very good for business.”

- LUNCH, WHO KNOWS CATS ARE ATTRACTED TO CANDY

Rudy is still not doing too well, but luckily many cats are monitoring her condition. Rudy is being pitied and is plotting revenge on Judy which is definitely a sign that she is getting better. What would be more worrying would be if Rudy stopped thinking about revenge on Judy. Halloween candy is also plentiful in kittens' stashes, as most parent cats can't get their kittens to give up any candy whether it is to them or in a candy exchange.

Subscribe again for more on Rudy's condition!