
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Harvey is being sued!

For some shady reason, Harvey is being sued for a thousand dollars by one of his therapy clients. Harvey is very confused and hurt right now, because he doesn't want to think that his therapy clients are unhappy with their treatments. However, Harvey's client, the one who is suing him, is not telling Harvey the reason behind the suing. The cat has told the police, and though they looked a bit skeptical, the police are letting the cat sue Harvey. However, when this unfolds in court, Harvey will get to know the reason behind this suing.

Image above - Harvey, who doesn't want to be sued.

Right now, Makenna and North are very unhappy with the cat who is suing Harvey. First of all, a thousand dollars is a lot, and second, you can at least tell people why you are suing them. However, right now the cat is meeting with Harvey to unveil the reason behind this suing. Harvey and the cat are in Harvey's therapy office, and are ready to talk. "You surely want to know why I am suing you," the cat is telling Harvey, "yes, I do want to know," Harvey responds curiosity in his eyes. "Well," the cat continues, "you're the worst therapist ever. You don't understand what I need, and when I wake up screaming at night, I can't call you-" "I don't have your number!" Harvey protests, "see," the cat continues, "I'm sure you have the numbers of all of your other therapy clients. But not me."

Right now, Harvey is speechless. "So that's why you're suing me?" Because I don't have your number and I don't know everything you need? That's the case with a lot of therapists! This is so amusing." Harvey shouldn't have added that last part, because he didn't see the cat's paw come around in a swing that connected with Harvey's shoulder. Harvey toppled over, grunting. Makenna leaped in front of Harvey, and police stepped out from behind the cat to make sure that no more punches were thrown. "Forget about the suing," one of the police officers said as they left Harvey's therapy office.

"I'm going to sue Mama for not letting me eat any more candy!"

- STRIPY JR.

Today. Just now, Judy has announced that she is going to sue Rudy for being a liability to the world.

Subscribe again for more suing!

Image above - Judy, who is going to try to sue Rudy for some ridiculous reason and then punch her when Rudy calls Judy's actions amusing.

Now that the drama is over, Harvey has retreated to his room. Though what his therapy client was suing him for was simple, Harvey was affected by the fact that his therapy client was not satisfied and felt left out. Harvey is eating candy to calm himself right now, and is thinking about how he can try to understand his clients better in the future to come. However, Harvey wasn't the only one who was sued