
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Kittens are awaiting the publishing of a new book!

Recently, kittens have been reading a bit more, and have found some books that they really like. And, as they have been finding more books that have humor and want to read more of that genre, kittens have found out that a new book is coming out soon that has been called “immature,” for bad jokes and bad influence on kittens. Of course, that has made kittens want to read the book, Diary of a Wimpy Kitten, more.

Image above - Lunch's kittens, thinking about the new book.

“I love bathroom jokes even though they are for little kittens,” says Gingerbread, one of Rudy’s kittens, “I like making mama cringe at the dinner table when I bring up a topic that has something to do with the bathroom.

I'm sure Diary of a Wimpy Kitten will be full of that kind of quality humor, and I am looking forward to reading it."

Many cats, including Harvey, are content with letting kittens read these kinds of books, but not for every kind of reading they do. Harvey thinks that some immature humor is good every now and then, and is mildly interested in this new book himself. In fact, when Harvey read the preview of the book late at night, he woke up Makenna by laughing really hard. If these jokes make Harvey laugh, it makes you wonder how mature he really is.

Rudy has bought a bunch of that kind of books, and is letting her kittens read them however they like. Rudy is doing this because Judy has told her kittens that they are too old for this kind of book. Judy's kittens are at Rudy's house right now, and Judy is playing video games at her house fuming about how Rudy is stealing her kittens. However, Judy too is interested in this kind of book, and has been reading copies secretly late at night. Rudy loves the books too, and is also looking forward to the publishing of Diary of a Wimpy Kitten.

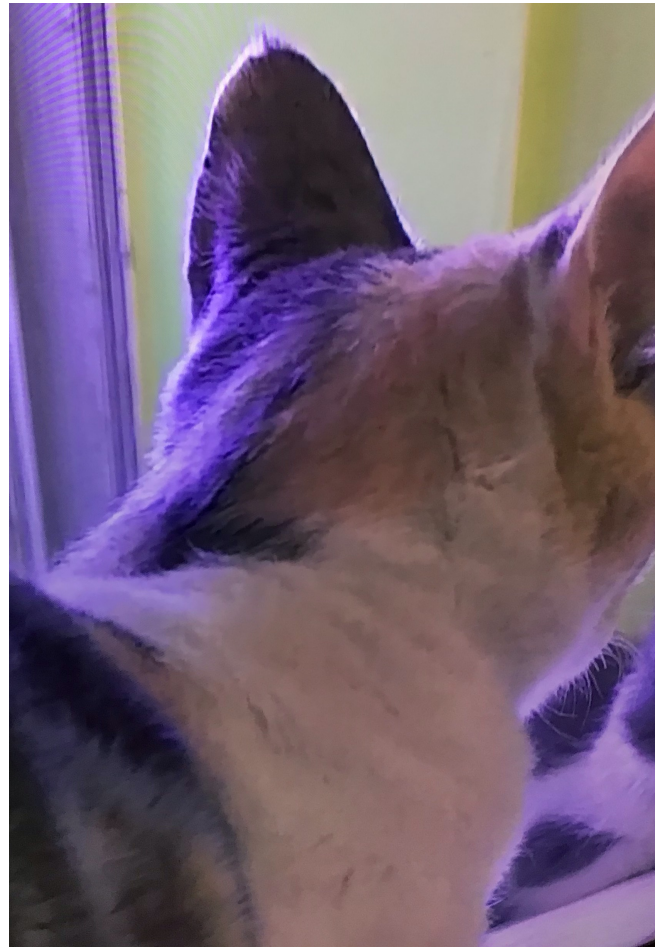

Image above - Rudy, who enjoys books that teach immature things and give her colorful ideas of tortures to be used on Judy.

"As a behaviorist, I have to say that well... umm... I find these books pretty funny."

- NORTH, RELUCTANTLY

change, because kittens usually stay up to play video games at night, not to read.

Subscribe again for more on Diary of a Wimpy Kitten!