

---

CATS ILLUSTRATED

---

Judy has gotten into golfing!

Recently, Judy has been going to a golf course, and has become interested in golfing. Judy likes golfing because it is a single cat sport, and Judy likes trying to break her golfing records for each hole. Judy also likes golfing when she is feeling angry or sad, because it seems to calm her down a bit.

Image above - Judy, who enjoys working on her golfing game.

---

Most cats have never been golfing, unless you count the mini golf place some kittens went to a while back. Judy has been going to a golf course just outside of Pawsville, and has paid for a membership there. She has gone there every weekend for a few weeks, and now other cats are starting to wonder whether golfing could be the sport for them. Rudy, for example, would love to play against Judy in a game of golf, and Lunch loves to work on things that involve precision. Harvey would love to golf, but having only one front paw would make it a lot harder. Harvey is a bit sad and disappointed, but he understands why it would be harder for him to play golf.

Today, kittens went out to the mini golf parlor to start practicing. It cost quite a bit, but kittens have more money than you would think. However, it will be a while before they are allowed on a golf course, as most courses have a one year age requirement for cats - young kittens could be a distraction to other serious golfers. However, kittens do enjoy putting balls as well as adult cats, and are determined to refine their golfing skills.

Rudy, as she has a large backyard, has been more attentive to her grass lawn. Usually there is too much grass growing, but Rudy has moved down her lawn and has bought some flags as she seems to be setting up a mini golf course. Rudy dug some holes, and put metal cups in them to catch the balls. She has the flags needed, and Rudy got some golf clubs and balls too. She has just opened her five hole golf course, and her kittens are playing the holes right now. Rudy is charging three dollars a kitten to golf on her golf course, which is a lot but is a lot less than what other mini golf parlors cost.

“One of the golf holes goes over Rudy’s pool - Rudy had to fish a ball out!”

- MAVIS’S KITTENS

ten cat or kitten limit on the golf course at all times. However, Rudy has been making money, and she is happy about that.

Subscribe again for more on golfing!

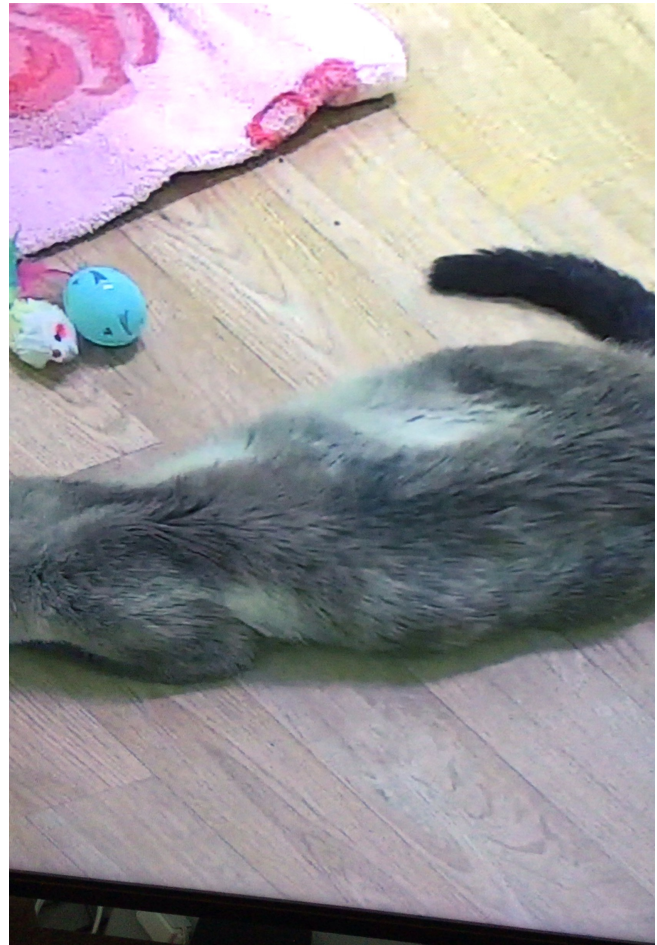

Image above - Lunch, who would golf, if it wasn't five dollars a hole.

Golfing is a new sport to many cats, but it can be relaxing and enjoyable. Rudy's golf course has attracted many cats, and Rudy set up a snack shack, and printed out some score cards so kittens could keep track of their scores. However, too many kittens were playing at the same time, so Rudy had to put in place a