

---

CATS ILLUSTRATED

---

It's starting to snow in Pawsville!

As winter is fast approaching, Pawsville has started to snow for real. There was a small snow period a month back, but this is the real start. Snow is making a lot of cats excited, as it brings the possibilities for many new activities.

Image above - Harvey and North, who can't wait to see the snow.

---

"I can't wait for the first snow day!" Grappelt, one of Juliet's kittens, is saying, "on snow days school gets cancelled. That's really good because then you get more time to play in the snow! It all works out really well for kittens." Latte, one of Naya's kittens, has some other ideas, "I can't wait to build snow forts on weekends and have snowball fights with other kittens!"

Snow is going to be so fun!” This all may take a while, though, as there is only about two inches of snow on the ground, and it is already melting. However, it has gotten cats really pumped up about snow and its wonders.

Adult cats are looking forward to snow, too, as Mavis has expressed that she loves to make snow angels in snow. Naya loves to stockpile snowballs and wait for cats to walk by, as she would nail them with a snowball and then duck out of view. Harvey likes searching for clean snow, and then eating it up. This has made for some odd dips in the snow in Harvey’s yard, as he has scooped out a little clean snow to eat from each small dip in the snow.

The snow also opens up job opportunities, because the roads need to be plowed. Rudy is applying to be a snow plow driver, as she wants to plow all of the snow into her front yard. Also, Rudy likes trying out new vehicles. On top of that, snow plow drivers get paid a reasonable amount, so Rudy could earn some money in the winter months. Also, snow plow drivers get free hot chocolate after they are done with their work for the day.

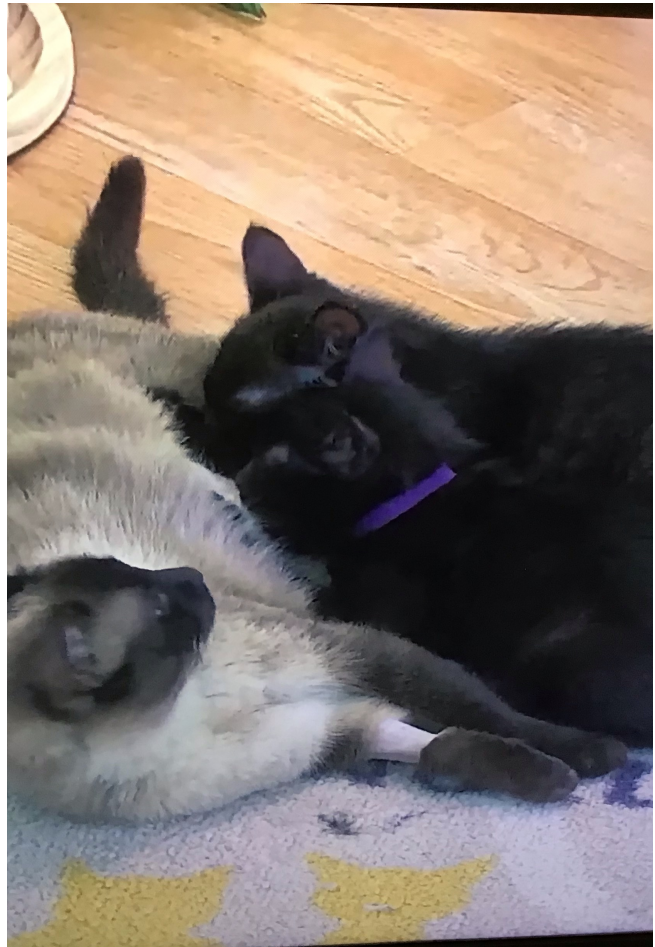

Image above - Lunch, who is delaying the opening of her Luncheon’s outdoor patio because of the weather.

“I’m gonna ambush Rudy when she comes to plow my street!”

- JUDY

of himself, and it was surprisingly life like. He even added a sugar cube in his snow Harvey to make it very realistic.

Subscribe again for more on snow!

Lunch enjoys the snow, but is annoyed that the opening of her outdoor patio will have to wait as the snow comes in. However, Lunch’s Luncheon is taking on a winter theme, and Lunch is buying space heaters to make her Luncheon nice and cozy. There is also a new stereo that will be playing winter and Christmas songs.

As cats frolic in the new snow, some kittens have been getting out their sleds. There is nowhere to sled yet, but if new snow falls, there will be. Harvey has made a snow version