
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Juliet has had an allergic reaction!

As she is craving sweets, Juliet stole a piece of candy from one of her kittens' stashes. However, she didn't read the label carefully, and by accident, Juliet consumed caramel filled chocolate. She reacted immediately, and Blackpelt rushed in to see what had happened. He pieced together what happened by the candy wrapper on the ground, and some chocolate crumbs by Juliet. Blackpelt dragged Juliet out of the room, and with the help of three of Juliet's kittens, lifted her into the car. Right now, Juliet is still in the hospital, but has been treated for her allergic reaction. Blackpelt is talking to some doctors, and they have given him some medicine for Juliet if she has an allergic reaction and there is not a doctor nearby. However, Blackpelt will be monitoring Juliet a lot more carefully after this.

Image above - Juliet, resting in the hospital.

Many cats are worried for Juliet, as they know she is very allergic to chocolate. Juliet has gotten some get well soon cards, without the chocolates that they came with originally. Juliet has read some of the cards, but right now she is very sad, because she knows that chocolate, one of the things she loves most, is never okay for her to eat. Juliet had been so desperate for candy that she didn't think about her cacao allergy, and therefore ended up in the hospital.

Right now, Juliet is getting chewed out by Blackpelt, though he is more worried than angry. Juliet has agreed never to eat candy unless it is proven that there is no chocolate in it at all. Still, Juliet is sad that she won't ever really be able to eat chocolate, without risking her own health and safety. The doctors have determined that Juliet's throat swelled when she ate the chocolate, and if she had eaten too much, she could have asphyxiated. Juliet also has some welts on her face that are very large and angry. However, the doctors also warned Juliet that hot chocolate was also out of the question, as it contained cacao powder.

Image above - Lunch, who uses baking chocolate in some of her Luncheon's recipes, and is putting up warnings near those dishes on the menu.

“Juliet’s a good cat. I wish Judy were allergic to chocolate instead.”

- RUDY

Many cats feel really bad for Juliet, because they know how good chocolate is. Harvey reassured Juliet that he doesn't need chocolate to live, if he has sugar. That didn't really make Juliet feel better, and right now she is thinking about all of the things that contain chocolate - some donuts, most candy, cakes, cupcakes, muffins, and many other things. Juliet probably won't be able to eat those things unless they don't contain chocolate.

Chocolate really is a dessert staple, and it is very sad that Juliet will never be able to really eat it. But let's not talk about that too much so Juliet doesn't feel bad.

Subscribe again for more on chocolate!