
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Cats have been trying out new toilet options!

Yesterday, when Rudy went to the bathroom feeling grumpy, she realized how cold and hard a toilet seat was. Then, Rudy thought that if she had a custom toilet seat, it would make Judy jealous. And nothing spurs Rudy into action like an opportunity to make Judy jealous.

Image above - Harvey, who needs an upgrade from cold and hard toilet seats.

Rudy replaced her whole toilet yesterday, and the new one is definitely on the luxurious side — it has seat temperature options, a button that makes water shoot up to clean your behind, and a built in fan. Rudy took a photo and posted it on Catstagram, where it has encouraged many cats to buy luxury toilets. This idea has also caught on with local cats, and Mavis is getting one tomorrow and Naya is looking for a good opportunity to steal one. However, Harvey is the cat who needs a special toilet the most.

“These past few days, the toilet seat has been making my - - - (replaced) very sore,” says Harvey, “so I have decided to get the most deluxe toilet on the market. It has seat warming, a water jet, a fan, an air freshener, a built in tablet, and a pawrest.” Right now, even Rudy is jealous of Harvey, because what kind of toilet has a pawrest and a tablet attached to it? However, this toilet is very expensive, and Makenna is wondering whether Harvey can afford it. He already bought the toilet, but it will take a while to pay off the five grand spent. But Harvey is very excited for his new toilet, and Makenna agrees that she could use a pawrest every once and a while.

This excitement over toilets has gotten cats interested in other home modifications, and Juliet has even looked into getting a small escalator. Unfortunately, home additions cost a lot, and most cats can’t afford it. However, Lunch has called from her vacation hotel to say that she is considering getting a full minibar, serving soft drinks and alcohol. However, cats are considering different additions too, like a back porch or an indoor swing.

Image above - Rudy, who has also decided to get a mini fridge for her bathroom.

“My bathroom has speakers for music and a microwave.”

- JUDY, WHO THINKS THAT NOW SHE HAS THE EDGE OVER RUDY

While some cats are concerned about home additions, temperatures outside have risen to fifty on some days. All of the snow is melting, and some of the frozen-over lakes have been deemed unsafe to skate on because of thin ice. Kittens have been entertaining themselves with video games, and many cats are wishing that the town pool was open.

Unfortunately, the pool has not been cleaned properly and is still around seven to eight percent urine. It will probably be cleaned by the spring.

Subscribe again for more on home additions!