
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Lunch's car is stuck in the snow!

After a long day of work at her Luncheon, Lunch went to her car and got inside. However, even when Lunch pressed the gas, the car just stayed in place. When Lunch got out to look at her car, she realized that the sides were covered in icy snow. It had been snowing throughout the day, and now Lunch's car was trapped in ice.

Image above - Harvey, who's had similar situations with his Jeep.

Lunch called Harvey and a few other cats for help, and together they hacked at the ice around Lunch's car. After a tiring half hour, the car was free. But cats are being more careful about where they park their cars now, as not all cats are able to call for help with their car. This ice incident has also made Lunch more on edge, and whenever there is any snow near her car, she takes it for a short drive around the block.

In the last day, it has started snowing in Pawsville. Kittens are happy that there is snow to play in, and adult cats are happy that they will have a white Christmas. Right now, the big sledding hill at the golf course is the most popular among kittens, and there is even a black market business for golf cart rides back up the large hill. However, the fuss over the sledding hill has left many lakes available, and many adult cats have taken this opportunity to go out for ice skating or just the exhilarating feeling of sliding on their behinds.

Many Christmas decorations are popping up as well, and cats are getting into the Christmas spirit. Christmas is just five days away, and kittens are getting antsy because of the thought of gifts and the few gifts under the tree already. However, many cats are also getting ready for New Year's Eve, where kittens will be allowed to stay up until midnight and celebrate the new year. Kittens will be holding contests to see who can stay up the latest, with the winner getting a pile of snacks and some money.

Image above - Lunch, who is behind on putting up Christmas decorations.

“I stole some candy canes from Rudy’s kittens!”

- NAYA, WHO WILL FEEL THE WRATH OF RUDY

Candy canes have been very popular as well, and these days kittens spend all of their money in the convenience store on packs upon packs of candy canes. In fact, Rudy’s kittens set up a candy cane stand on their front porch, selling the candy canes for about double their worth. But kittens will do almost anything for a candy cane, and Rudy’s kittens have been pulling in loads of money. However, even Rudy will buy candy canes from her kittens, because even adult cats can have a sweet tooth.

Unfortunately, Judy does not let her kittens buy candy canes from Rudy’s kittens, just so Rudy’s kittens don’t make as much money.

Subscribe again for more on candy canes!