Harvey has been looking into prosthetic arm options!

As he has been finding living with three legs particularly hard in the last few weeks, Harvey is looking into prosthetic arm ideas. However, some cats, including Makenna, think that this is too big of a change too fast. First of all, Harvey is still paying off his high-tech toilet with money from who knows where. In fact, Makenna saw Harvey asking the bank for a loan, and right now Makenna thinks that Harvey is in the hole, money-wise.

After being confronted, Harvey did admit that he had taken a five grand loan from the bank, and that he was barely able to pay off his new high-tech toilet every month. North ended up transferring a little of his money to Harvey's bank account, while Makenna sat Harvey down and asked him about prosthetic arm prices. Most were about ten to twenty grand, much higher than Harvey's price range. And Makenna knows that Harvey will probably need a high quality prosthetic arm, so his might cost as much as twenty-five grand.

Harvey has been thinking of asking for a loan from Lunch, as Lunch's bank account is still very large since she won the lottery. However, when Lunch heard this, she offered to gift some of the money to Harvey. Harvey tentatively accepted, and then gave Lunch a long, bone-crushing hug. It might have literally even been bone-crushing. Right now, Harvey is thinking about if he really wants to get a prosthetic arm, because it would be a huge step for him. Makenna and North are helping Harvey decide, and he is going to go to the hospital tomorrow to check out more options and get more details on this topic.

Many cats will be very excited to hear if Harvey actually tries to get a prosthetic arm, as it would mean a lot for his life — Harvey could drive a Jeep easier, he wouldn't have to limp, and he could run fast! If he ran fast, Harvey would be able to build up even more momentum before sliding on his behind on frozen ice! However, Harvey is not sure that he wants to get a prosthetic arm. He has lived with three legs for most of his life, and a prosthetic arm wouldn't be able to grip sugar cubes well.

This new prosthetic arm idea is still in consideration for Harvey, and there is still a long way to go before he actually makes a decision about whether he is getting one or not. But all of Harvey's friends and family will be there to support whatever decision Harvey
