

---

CATS ILLUSTRATED

---

The Trampoline duels are starting!

As this tournament is very fast moving, we can only cover some of it. However, since we didn't cover the qualifying round, we can tell you that Lunch's kittens did their routine, and even though it was pretty simple, they executed it perfectly. But now they have advanced to the duels, and soon Lunch's kittens will be up against a team of elite adult cats, who scored higher than Lunch's kittens in the qualifying round.

Image above - Lunch, taking a rest with her kittens before the trampoline duels.

---

Right now equipment is being set up, and cats are getting seated in the stands. This time, Lunch's kittens will be trying a more complicated approach, one that involves a ball. Lunch's kittens will be doing moves along the lines of passing a ball of each other twenty feet in the air, throwing the ball down from a high height, and then catching it when it bounces up, and finally, Lunch's kittens will be attempting midair volleyball, at varying heights.

Lunch and Jake are very nervous for their kittens, and for good reason. The other team is one of the best teams in the competition, and Lunch's kittens are not favored to win. Even in Pawsville, most cats have put their money on the other team, but their hearts on Lunch's kittens. And that's why Lunch isn't FaceTiming cats from Pawsville, because they'll have to lie to encourage Lunch's kittens and tell them that they will win. But right now, the duels are starting. Lunch's kittens will go first, and then the other team will go. The announcer will announce each score after both teams go.

Lunch's kittens are on the trampoline right now, and they are getting ready. The whistle has been blown, and they are starting out with plain coordinated bounces. However, Obsidian dropped extra fast on one bounce, but it wasn't an accident. Somnolent, who was in the air, tossed the ball to where Obsidian had been, and when Obsidian rocketed back up, he caught the ball. There was an ooh from the crowd, which seemed to boost Lunch's kittens' energy.

Image above - Judy, who bet twenty dollars that Lunch's kittens lose this.

“I saw our championship flash before my eyes!”

- OBSIDIAN

Lunch's kittens are executing all of the moves that they have planned, and the final one is approaching. Right now, Lunch's kittens are just doing coordinated bounces, but soon, midair volleyball will start. Black has just served the ball to Stygian, who is passing it to Night. So far, this is going well, but the more complicated volleyball moves are yet to come. However, Night has just executed a foreleg chop, sending the ball spinning at Obsidian.

Obsidian reeled backward, but in his haste, accidentally headed the ball to Somnolent. The crowd oohed some more.

Subscribe again for more on the Trampoline Duels!