
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Lunch's kittens are getting an account on catTube!

As Lunch thinks that her kittens are mature enough, she has agreed to let them have a catTube account. However, this decision has sparked controversy among other adult cats, as Juliet thinks that her kittens and Lunch's kittens are too young for a catTube account, while Mavis thinks that it would be a nice idea for her kittens as well.

Image above - Juliet, who thinks that Lunch's kittens are too young to have a catTube account.

Juliet's kittens have told their mama what they think of the situation, by being uncooperative and unhelpful. But Juliet is adamant, and her kittens are thinking about planning a full-scale rebellion. But while Juliet's kittens are finding it hard, Lunch is helping her kittens set up their account right at this very moment. Mavis has told her kittens that they can also have an account, but she doesn't have the time at the moment to set it up. Her kittens didn't mind — somehow, they knew exactly how to set up the account themselves.

Juliet is feeling pressured right now, as other cats have been letting their kittens have accounts, and her kittens are pressuring her. Naya thinks that it would be a great idea to let her kittens have a catTube account, as it would let them share all of their stealing tricks with the world. Even Rudy and Judy have agreed that their kittens should have catTube accounts, and Rudy is busy setting up an account for her kittens. Most of Judy's kittens already have catTube accounts, but Judy was willing to set them up for the kittens who didn't already have one.

Even Harvey thought that it was a great idea for kittens to have catTube accounts, and that's what really pushed Juliet over the edge. She marched up to her kittens, and told them firmly that they would not get a catTube account until they were a year old. Juliet's kittens were furious, and they have decided to launch a full-scale rebellion. Yesterday, Juliet's kittens skipped dinner entirely and spent hours in their room with the door locked. However, this was not helping their situation, and Juliet's resolve was strong.

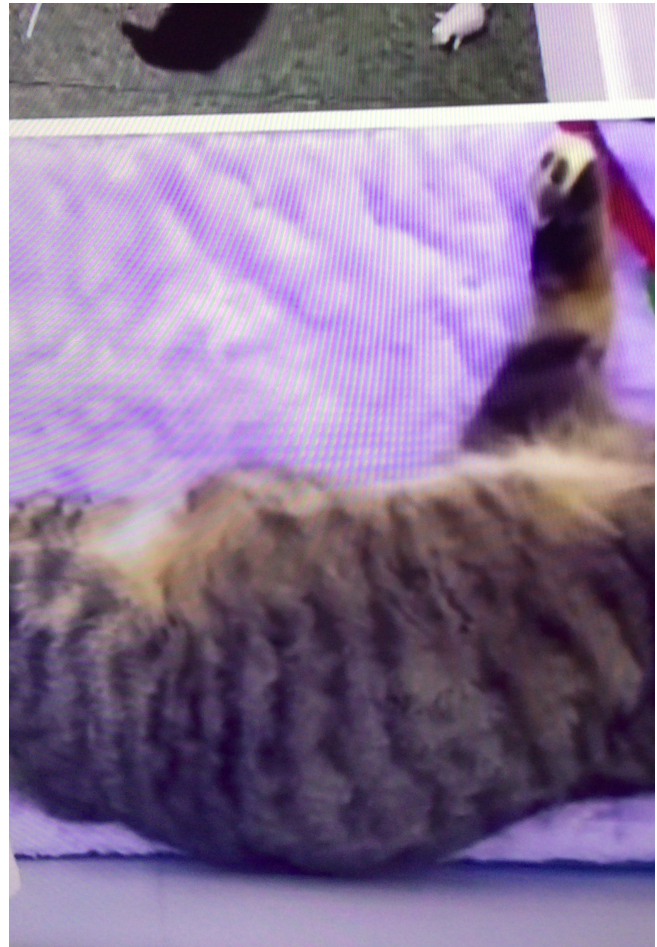

Image above - Harvey, who might get a catTube account himself.

“I can't wait five months for a catTube account!”

- BLACKPELT JR., ONE OF JULIET'S KITTENS

Right now, Juliet's kittens are very angry at their mama, while other kittens think about what they want to do first with their new privileges. Many kittens want to make sledding videos, and today, the hill was packed with kittens, some of them sledding, others filming. Many kittens were having lots of fun, even though Juliet's kittens sat in their room and sulked, not even feeling up to playing video games or eating any junk food or candy.

Subscribe again for more on catTube accounts!