
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Lunch's kittens are missing!

In the chaos of Rudy and Judy's big fight, Lunch's kittens have gone missing. They left a note for Lunch saying, "We've gone to explore the great outdoors." Lunch is very worried right now, and she has been asking other cats to help her search. Her kittens have already spent a night in whatever place they are at, and no cat knows how Lunch's kittens are doing.

Image above - Lunch, looking out the window to see if her kittens are coming home.

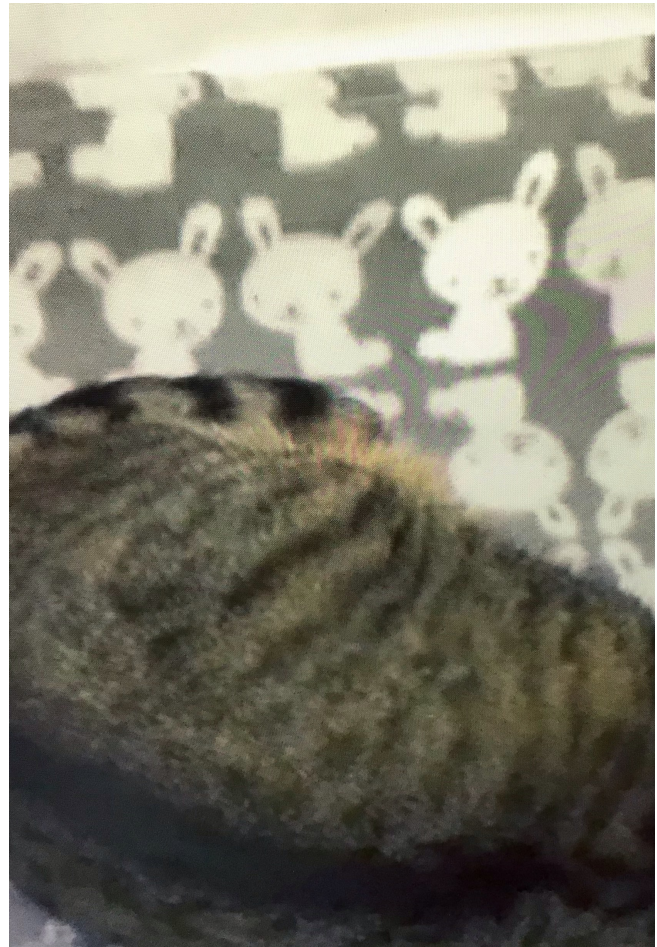

Mavis and Harvey have agreed to help search for Lunch's kittens, because it is always a very serious matter when kittens go missing. Lunch's kittens have gone to a few summer camps, and they know some very basic skills for surviving in the outdoors, but who knows how they are doing right now. The temperature is below forty degrees, and it dropped down to twenty degrees overnight. Lunch's kittens took some heavy coats and some blankets, but that isn't enough to keep them warm on a night like last night.

The only food that Lunch's kittens brought was some junk food, which is not the best food to bring with you on an expedition. No cat knows how long the junk food will last, and Lunch wants to find her kittens as fast as possible. But the area surrounding Pawsville is very large, and Lunch's kittens could be anywhere in it. They themselves might also be lost. Lunch has convinced a few more cats to help her search, and now she is leading an expedition out. Her kittens could be hurt, sick, or hungry, or even all three. The woods near Pawsville are not good woods to camp in, let alone stay the night in them.

While Lunch searches for her kittens, Rudy and Judy are being assessed. Judy has a fractured leg and bruised ribs, and Rudy broke several ribs. The police are involved now, and many cats are saying that Rudy and Judy should be sent away to get professional therapy. That last part offended Harvey a bit, but he agrees that Rudy and Judy need care, and a cat to talk to them about why they want to hurt each other. This latest incident has really puzzled cats, as things are starting to go too far in Rudy and Judy's feud.

Image above - Harvey, who likes to think that he is a professional therapist.

“I really do feel bad for Lunch. But now that her house is empty, I’ve got a chance to rob it!”

- NAYA

Rudy and Judy's issue is going to have to wait, though, because of the fact that Lunch's kittens are missing. The police have gotten involved, and there is a full on search being conducted right now. Lunch is very distraught, and right now she and Jake are helping out in the search for their kittens. Many cats feel sorry for them, as it is not a good feeling to know that your kittens are alone somewhere in the wilderness, as they might be hurt, sick, or worse.

Subscribe again for more on this search for Lunch's kittens!