Today is April Fools Day!

Today is April one, which is April Fools day! This is a very fun occasion, and cats are very excited. Kittens will be playing lots of pranks, and adult cats may get in on the fun too. Naya has not yet made an appearance in Pawsville, but she might still have a few tricks up her sleeve.

Lunch's kittens were the first to pull a big trick. This morning, they replaced all of the sugar packets in their mama's luncheon with packets of artificial sweetener. Today, cats picked up "sugar" packets for their coffee and food, and got artificial sweetener instead. Only Harvey noticed the difference. However, Mavis's kittens pulled off a big one too. Today, all of the tables in the cafeteria were covered in toilet paper, which was a nasty surprise for the first group of kittens who came to lunch. Juliet's kittens' prank went a little bit too far, as they replaced the potato chips in the big bag they had with Kudo's (a food that Juliet was formerly addicted to). Juliet ate them, and Blackpelt had to stop her from going all in and eating the whole bag. He has dumped it out.

Harvey is pranking North, but his pranks are not so extreme. Harvey replaced the soda in North's mini-fridge with water, drinking all of the soda in the process. This was a shock to North, but it wasn't that bad. But North got Harvey back a little later, when he replaced the sugar cubes in Harvey's open bag with salt cubes. However, that might have been too much of a prank, as Harvey popped three salt cubes in his mouth before he tasted them. But Harvey agreed that it was fair payback for replacing North's soda with water, as North relies on that soda for late night work and stress.

But right now, there is one wild card. A few mystery pranks have shown up that seemed very much like something Naya would do, like placing a tripwire next to a pool. Rudy was the unlucky cat, and she fell face first into a tarp and then into ice cold water. Some kittens were at the convenience store, ready to pay for some chips they were buying, but all of the money in their wallets had been replaced with seaweed. Naya's kittens found wood shavings in their cereal boxes this morning, which was almost certainly Naya's work.

“We set a tripwire in front of a vat of soup at school, and the principal...”

- RUDY'S KITTENS, WHO KNOW THEY'LL BE IN TROUBLE

Adult cats are getting in on the fun, too, and are setting up pranks while their kittens are at school. Lunch has a score to settle with her kittens, as eventually customers at her Luncheon complained to her and Lunch found out what her kittens had done. And when something like that happens, you know that the retaliation prank will be something extreme.
