

---

CATS ILLUSTRATED

---

Harvey is taking North jet-skiing!

As time is running out to go on a trip, Harvey did some quick research and found out about a jet-ski rental place about thirty miles away from Pawsville. Harvey and North will be leaving a little later today, and they will stay one night at a motel near the jet-ski rental place. Harvey is very excited, and North is ready to try something new.

Image above - Lunch, who thinks that this will be a fun trip.

---

Normally, kittens would be swarming Harvey right now, trying to get Harvey to let them come. But since the only kittens left in Pawsville are Naya's kittens, who are too busy brushing up on their pickpocketing, Harvey and North get a free pass. But while kittens aren't a problem this time, there are other hurdles. First of all, the motel near the jet-ski rental place does not serve food, so North and Harvey would have to bring their own. Second, North and Harvey are arguing as to what counts as an “essential” that needs to be brought. Harvey is saying that his essentials are a dozen packs of sugar cubes, but North is saying that Harvey doesn’t need that many for just one overnight experience.

However, even though North and Harvey are arguing about what to bring, they know that the experience will be quite fun. North has researched jet-skiing on the web, and he has found some exhilarating videos of it. But even though North knows that jet-skiing will be fun, he definitely plans to wear a life jacket. Right now, North is doing some final packing, while Harvey is loading their things into his Jeep. The jet-ski rental place is only reachable via a dirt road, and North does not want his car to have to drive over that. Harvey’s Jeep is more of an all-terrain vehicle, which makes it the better candidate.

Even though they will only be gone for a day, North and Harvey are worried about their house getting vandalized. Harvey wouldn’t put it past Naya or even her kittens, and he ordered a security camera to be put up.

“Makenna played baseball when she was younger - she was one of the best hitters in the league.”

- HARVEY, TRYING TO INTIMIDATE NAYA’S KITTENS

Makenna is on high alert, and she has her trusty baseball bat ready in case any kittens try and break in. Reposado has sharpened the ends of their paintbrushes just in case, and Smoke has started using a pen with a retractable knife at one end. This may seem like overkill by a lot, but when you’re dealing with Naya or her kittens, it isn’t.

Harvey and North are leaving now, and it will be very fun to hear about their trip when they come back. Also, other cats may be starting to come back from their trips, and Mavis and her kittens will be driving in tomorrow.

Image above - Judy, who agrees with keeping a baseball bat handy.

Subscribe again for more on jet-skiing!