
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Harvey is thinking about moving!

As his house has been having some problems recently, Harvey is seriously considering moving. Today, an old pipe finally broke, and Harvey's house lost running water and there was a small flood in the walls. There was serious water damage, and this incident has made Harvey think about whether it is time to say goodbye to his home.

Image above - Harvey, who knows that his house has some problems.

This is a very convenient time to be thinking this, as North has just gotten a job as a realtor. He is showing homes to cats right now, and it would be easy for Harvey to get in and look at the model house that North is showing. It might even be easier for Harvey to buy a house, if his kitten was in the business. Harvey is interested to see the model house that North is showing, as he is seriously considering moving, and this new development would be perfect.

Makenna, Smoke, and Reposado also agree that a new house would be nice. However, Harvey has just realized something. He would have to leave his therapy office if he moved, and that is a very big deal. Harvey loves his therapy office, and he isn't sure if he wants to say goodbye to it yet. So Harvey is considering other ideas. He could tear down his house and build a new one on the same property, so he wouldn't have to leave his therapy office, or he could just build a new therapy office wherever he moved. One problem with moving to the new development is that there isn't space for cats to build structures of their own. This would mean that Harvey would have to have an in-house therapy office, which could definitely be hard.

While Harvey thinks about what to do about his housing dilemma, Juliet and Mavis are still not getting along. Their kittens got into a little scuffle yesterday at school, and Juliet was seen patting her kittens on the back when they told her about the scuffle they had gotten into. Mavis is teaching her kittens how to throw cabbages adeptly, and her kittens can hit a tin can from fifty feet away.

However, they haven't gotten to the point where they are using real weapons, like Rudy and Judy famously did.

“If you have any extra stuff, I can take it off your paws for free!”

- NAYA, TALKING TO HARVEY

North does feel a little bad for using his skills to get cats to buy houses, but at least the job pays well.

Subscribe again for more on housing dilemmas!

Image above - Rudy, who's moved before and knows that it's no easy thing.