

---

CATS ILLUSTRATED

---

Lunch is trying out new ice cream flavors!

As Lunch was driving to another town yesterday to buy equipment for her luncheon, she found some interesting ice cream flavors in the grocery store. She brought home a tub of pistachio ice cream, and was eating it last night. Lunch immediately liked the ice cream, and she is raving to her kittens about how it is better than any ice cream she has tasted.

Image above - Lunch, who has found some flavors that she likes.

---

Lunch's kittens did try the ice cream, though they did not like it as much as their mama. They thought that the pistachio flavor tasted weird, and Lunch's kittens have confided in other kittens that they think that pistachios and ice cream should never mix. However, Lunch has found a new favorite, and she is asking if Rebecca would make some pistachio ice cream, so Lunch wouldn't have to go all the way to the next town over just to restock her supply. Rebecca has said that she would try, though she is a bit unsure of how to make the ice cream.

Other cats are wondering what other flavors Lunch saw in the grocery store. She has said that she saw grape ice cream, caramel ice cream, and even blueberry ice cream. These may not sound rare, but to cats who can only buy ice cream from a grocery store with a few flavors, and from Rebecca, who made her menu a few years ago but doesn't bother changing it, these flavors are rare. Some cats are thinking about making a trip to the other town near Pawsville just to get some of this ice cream, either to enjoy it or sell it to another cat for a high price. In fact, Mavis has left right now, and she has brought along a cooler. She looks like she is going to try and sell the ice cream to other cats to make more money.

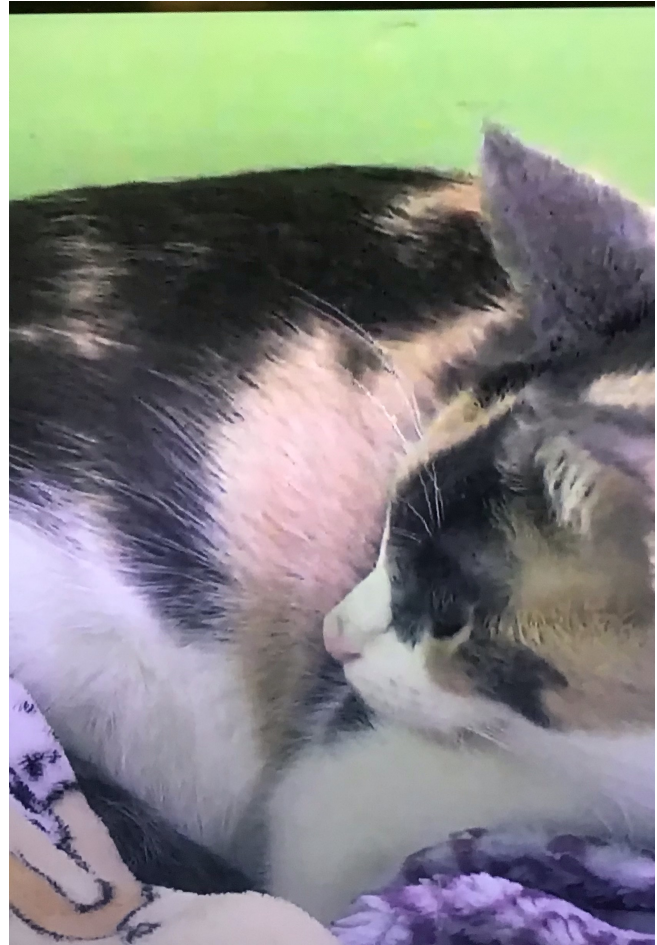

Image above - Juliet, who's going to get some grape ice cream tomorrow.

Harvey is also interested in these new ice cream flavors, and he is having North pick up some blueberry ice cream for him. North is also picking up a tub of coffee ice cream for himself, which we can tell will be a hit for a cat like North who loves coffee and ice cream. And most cats don't like coffee enough to be tempted to steal it, so North's loot is safe from Harvey and Makenna and hopefully Naya.

“We could make a killing selling the ice cream you buy!”

- MAVIS'S KITTENS, TRYING TO MAKE A BUSINESS DEAL WITH THEIR MAMA

Cats are discovering that there are many more ice cream flavors than they ever knew about, which is fun for all cats but Rebecca and the grocery store owners, who make a killing selling ice cream to cats. However, temperatures are very hot and mosquitos are plentiful, and cats may just want to stick close to home rather than drive for a half hour to buy a different flavor of ice cream. That will raise the value of imported ice cream, which is good for Mavis.

Subscribe again for more on cool ice cream flavors!