
CATS ILLUSTRATED

Lunch is renovating her luncheon!

As it is summer, and the weather is much nicer, Lunch has started renovating her luncheon. She has always wanted to have an outdoor patio in the back, though this last winter cut off her efforts. Now, it is summer, and Lunch has been hard at work clearing the area in the back of her luncheon where the outdoor patio would go.

Image above - Lunch, who has been waiting to do these renovations for a long time.

Rudy and Mavis have been helping Lunch plan the outdoor patio, and there are construction workers coming in to build it. Lunch's Luncheon is closing for a little bit, though many cats will be excited when it reopens so they can see what the outdoor patio is like. However, this construction will probably take a few weeks, and Lunch's Luncheon will not be open during that time. But, Lunch is willing to close her luncheon if it means she can make renovations like the ones she plans to do.

This closing has affected some kittens, too. Stripy's kittens love to go to Lunch's Luncheon after school to do their homework and have a snack, but they won't be able to do that for the next few weeks, and by then, school will be over. Even Lunch's kittens sometimes come over to their mama's luncheon to steal some fries or treats. But kittens aren't too sad about this temporary closing. They will just spend their time at The Wish for Fish, which is where the cool kittens hang out. So maybe this situation isn't that bad, even though kittens like to pretend that it is and get extra video games as an apology from their sympathetic parents. This tactic doesn't work more than once though, and next time, kittens will be in for a long ride.

Harvey is very excited to see these new renovations when they are done, though he hopes that they will have a bug screen. Mosquitos are still plentiful, and we can say that Lunch has already planned some features that are meant to ward off mosquitos, including a bug screen. Her allergy makes these protections vital, and other cats will be happy to benefit from these features and have a place to go that is protected from mosquitos.

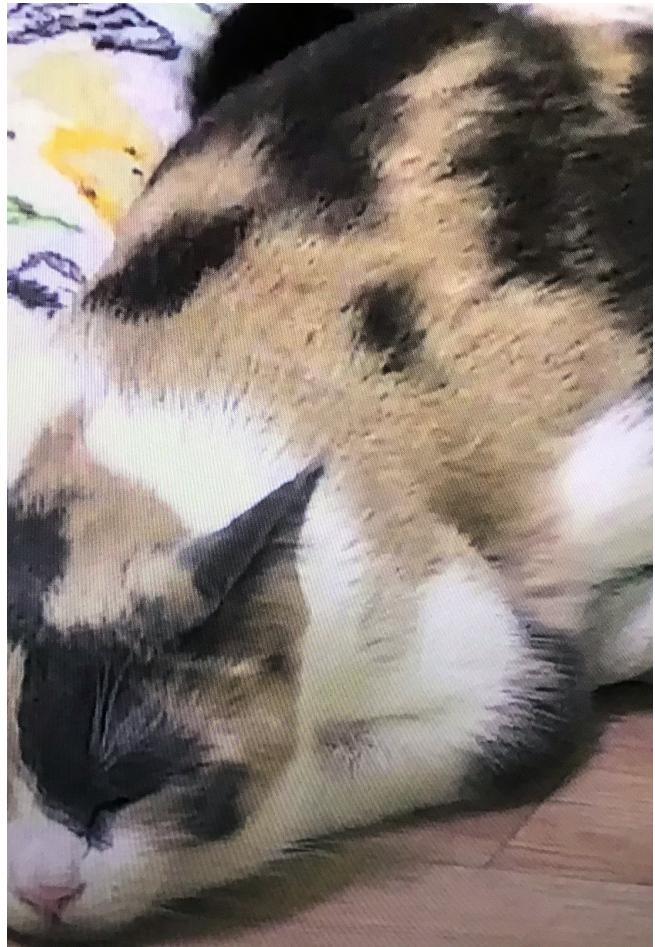

Image above - Juliet, who is very relieved that there will be a bug screen in Lunch's Luncheon's new outdoor patio.

“A place where cats get drunk is the perfect place to steal from!”

- NAYA, WHO HAS TWISTED INTENTIONS

Cats are excited to see the product of these new renovations, though they will take a while. But when the renovations are done, Lunch's Luncheon will probably be swarmed by cats hoping to catch up on their eating and cats who want to see what the new outdoor patio is like. It will be a really nice place to hang out on a hot night, while drinking beer. This will probably make it a target for kittens, who want to steal that beer all for themselves.

Subscribe again for more on this outdoor patio!